Skybolt Action Shadows Anglo-American Session

Nassau Cite Of Meeting Of Big Two

Balmy Weather Greets Kennedy And Macmillan

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met in balmy weather and high spirits Tuesday, but shadowing this "big two summit" was the conflict over proposed U. S. jettisoning of the Skybolt nuclear missile program.

The Anglo - American leaders stepped up to Tuesday afternoon their opening conference on world issues in the wake of the Cuban crisis and the new situation posed by Red China's invasion of India.

Top military men of both nations — including Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Britain's Peter Thorneycroft — were to sit in on the talks. Their presence underlined the pressing nature of the Skybolt controversy which had put Macmillan under severe political strain at home.

Setting for this sixth Kennedy-Macmillan meeting was the lush, sub-tropical Lyford Cay Club on a peninsula on the western tip of New Providence Island.

Kennedy was reported in a "friendly but firm" mood over the apparent American decision to halt within several months development of the Skybolt, an atomic-armed missile fired from a bomber to ground targets with a range of 1,000 miles.

British Want Skybolt

Britain had counted on the Skybolt to arm its jet bomber fleet. Kennedy has indicated, however, that failures and delays will lead to abandoning the project—whose completion would cost $2.5 billion — in favor of reliance on Minuteman and other missiles, the Polaris and Strategic Air Command.

The missile controversy had more immediacy but no more importance than other issues, including:

—Anglo-American support of India against Red Chinese encroachment.

Suppression Of Revolt Again Blasted

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly's special political committee Tuesday night renewed U. N. condemnation of Hungary and Russia for suppression of the 1956 freedom revolt. The vote was 43-14 with 32 abstentions.

A resolution sponsored by the United States reaffirmed earlier assembly action on the Hungarian question.

It also asked Secretary General Thant to "take any initiative that he deems helpful" to restore fundamental human rights to Hungary, and it discontinued the post of Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand as special U. N. representative on the Hungarian question.

Some delegates considered the resolution milder than those approved by the assembly annually since 1956. Chinese delegate C.M. Chang, who abstained in the vote, said he feared it might be the forerunner of the disappearance of the Hungarian issue from the assembly agenda.

The 10-nation Soviet bloc, Cuba, Yugoslavia, Ghana and Guinea opposed the resolution which carried with more than the two-thirds majority required for its final passage in the General Assembly.

Closest margin in the voting came in a divisional vote in which a paragraph "nothing with concern" the refusal of Hungary and Russia to cooperate with the U.N. representative was approved by a 42-18 vote, with 29 abstentions.

Carl T. Rowan told the General Assembly's special political committee that while "time tends to mute the forces of indignation," the United States "cannot believe that the spirit of liberty has grown so weak with time as to require this body to say to the Hungarian people: 'We have ceased to care.'"

Rowan, a deputy assistant secretary of state, told the committee the United States would oppose acceptance of Hungary's credentials to the assembly until it improves the situation within its own country.

He reminded the 110-nation group that since 1956, the assembly had taken no decision on Hungary's credentials, as an expression of "disapproval of the attitude and conduct of the Hungarian government."

15 Are Killed In Jailbreak At Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — At least 15 persons were killed Tuesday night when about 400 convicts at a suburban prison staged a spectacular jailbreak in which guards were taken hostage and normally quiet streets were turned into a battlefield.

National Prison authorities said many of the prisoners failed in the desperate bid for freedom and were surrendering their weapons and releasing hostages late Tuesday night.

However, they said the bloody revolt was still lingering in Villa Devoto Prison, where many of the convicts battled their way into the streets earlier. Reports said some escaped.

An official spokesman said at least 15 guards or policemen died in the prison revolt. Earlier estimates said convicts who did not succeed in getting outside the walls took about 20 guards for hostages.

Reports from the Villa Devoto section of the capital said terrified mothers pulled their children from the streets and shopkeepers slammed down iron shutters as the convicts spilled out of the prison. The sprawling compound holds at least 3,000 convicts ranging from violent criminals to political prisoners.

Don't Pity Blind Beggar

CHICAGO (UPI) — The next time you take pity on a blind beggar standing on an icy, windswept corner, Warren A. Logelin said Tuesday, don't drop a quarter in his tin cup.

Logelin, chairman of the Subscriptions Investigating Committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, said "blind beggars actually do a great harm to the vast majority of blind persons."

They give the erroneous impression, he said, that "all blind are helpless, unfit to hold jobs and thus good only for begging."

"Instead of giving into that impulse to drop a quarter in the cup," Logelin said, "send it to one of the several good welfare agencies for the blind. The return on your investment will be considerably higher in terms of self-respect and opportunity you will be helping some blind person to acquire."

Logelin said, incidentally, that the blind beggar may be making more than the kind passerby who befriends him.

"A recent study in New York revealed the average beggar's 'take' was nearly $6 an hour," he said. "That's almost $240 for a 40-hour week."

U.S. Unready To Recognize Yemen Rebels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Tuesday the United States is not quite ready to announce recognition of the rebel government of Yemen, despite what it called "some forward movement" by Yemeni officials.

"While there has been some forward movement, this matter is still under consideration," State Department press officer Lincoln White told newsmen. It was understood, however, that recognition of the regime which overthrew the Royalist government last September may come very soon.

The "forward movement" to which White referred was a statement by Yemeni deputy Premier Abdul Rahman Al-Baydhany that the regime would abide by international obligations, including those of the previous government.

Informed sources indicated only one more diplomatic development is being awaited here—an expected statement from the United Arab Republic declaring non-intervention. It appeared probable that formal U.S. recognition might quickly follow this.

Hodges Sees Tax Cuts As Retroactive

Personal Income Should Get Prime Benefit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Tuesday he believes President Kennedy still wants next year's proposed tax cuts made retroactive to Jan. 1 and declared his own view that most of the reduction should be in the personal income tax.

Hodges said the individual income tax savings would have a quicker stimulative effect than corporate rate cuts, getting the extra buying power more quickly "into the mainstream of the economy."

Hodges disclosed at a news conference that national output now has topped the $560 billion-a-year rate and predicted that production gains will continue to set new records in 1963.

"But the pace is not satisfactory," Hodges said, and tax reduction is needed to stimulate the rate of business expansion "over the long pull."

Although Kennedy, in his speech last week to the New York Economic Club, did not mention Jan. 1, 1963, as the target date for tax reduction to take effect, Hodges told a questioner that he thinks this is what the President recommended.

This conflicted with a widely held impression that Kennedy, confronted with the coolness of congressional leaders to a retroactive reduction, has backed away from his original plan to seek a two-stage bill with a portion of the cuts being made effective as of New Year's Day.

Hodges said he is standing by his earlier assertion that Congress should go ahead with tax reduction without waiting for the tax reforms and loophole-closings which the administration wants included in the tax program.

He declared that many businessmen agree with his view that the emphasis in tax reduction should be on the individual income tax rather than on corporate rates. Corporation cuts also are necessary, Hodges said, but are slower to make an impact because their effect is in the form of increased investment in plant and equipment which take time to develop.

His year-end economic report was generally favorable, even though it reflected gains far smaller than the administration predicted last January.

"The gross national product in the current quarter is expected to exceed (an annual rate of) $560 billion," Hodges reported.

"This will bring the year's total to $554 billion, representing an increase over 1961 of 7 per cent.

"I would hazard the guess that in the quarters of next year we will have advances in GNP which will compare favorably with the rise this quarter."

This, in effect, was a forecast of quarterly gains of about $5 billion a quarter in the year ahead—increases which would be far below a "boom" rate and would not appreciably reduce the high rate of unemployment.

GOP Seeks TV Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee served notice today it will ask all three television networks for a forum comparable to that accorded President Kennedy in his televised interview Monday night.

The committee said this would be only fair since Monday night's show "resulted in substantial benefit to the Democrats and their probable 1964 candidate."

Federal communications law provides that equal time must be granted political candidates. Officially, the President was speaking as chief executive, though of course any president's words can have effect on his political future.

Aside from this provision of law, a policy of the Federal Communications Commission calls on TV-radio stations to give well-rounded presentation of controversies.

Pre-Christmas Release Of Cuban Prisoners Seen

HAVANA (UPI) — New York Attorney James B. Donovan and three other members of his negotiating team returned here for the fourth time Tuesday to try to close a deal with Premier Fidel Castro for the pre-Christmas ransom release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners.

Heavy security arrangements were in effect at Havana's airport. Castro intelligence agents met the four-person steam at the plane, whisked them through immigration and rushed them into the city.

Cars loaded with heavily armed agents preceded and followed the sedan bearing the negotiators as they made the 12-mile trip into Havana and Mrs. Berta Barreto's suburban Miramar home.

Mrs. Barreto, Mrs. Virginia Betancourt and Alvaro Sanchez, Jr. were the Cuban members of Donovan's negotiating team. All with the exception of Mrs. Betancourt participated in previous talks with Castro. All have relatives among the prisoners.

Newsmen were barred from Havana's airfield but were permitted to watch from inside the terminal the arrival of the negotiators aboard a twin-engined DC-3 chartered from Pan American World Airways.

It was the first U.S. commercial transport to land in Havana in nearly two months since President Kennedy announced the naval blockade of Cuba last Oct. 20.

The tight security around the negotiators caused speculation they might be carrying a large amount of cash with them. Castro had previously asked $62-million in cash for the prisoners' release, but was reported to have agreed to take medicines and foodstuffs in like amount for their freedom.

This Mother's Action Drastic

PALMERO, Sicily (UPI) — When mechanic Salvatore Sammarco, 18, appeared cool to the idea of marrying Anna Messina, the girl's mother decided to speed up things, police reported Tuesday.

She invited the young man to her home, then locked him up in a room with Anna for four days.

Sammarco's parents Tuesday alerted police, who freed Salvatore and arrested the two women on charges of restricting his personal liberty.

Orderly Voting In Dominican Republic Seen

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Prospects for an orderly presidential election Thursday brightened Tuesday when Juan Bosch, candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary party, reversed his decision to withdraw.

Bosch said he and the party decided to participate because his political foes "admitted" that neither he nor the party followed Marxist-Leninist lines.

Only 24 hours earlier, Bosch had demanded a 30-day postponement of the elections to enable him to campaign against the accusation. But in a television debate Monday night with a Spanish Jesuit Priest, the Rev. Lautico Garcia, Bosch said the churchman "admitted that we are not a Marxist-Leninist, that is to say a Communist."

Also, Bosch said, the government had acceded to two of his party's demands: First, to allow citizens to vote in the districts in which they were working or living, instead of those in which they originally were registered, and, second, to permit the election campaign to continue through Wednesday instead of ending as scheduled Tuesday.

Palace sources said the government had decided to go ahead with the Thursday balloting, first free elections in nearly 40 years, whether or not the Bosch group participated.

Railroad Contract Let

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Budd Co. has received a contract for 24 hi-level transcontinental chair cars from the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway system, it was announced. The $8 million order raises the Budd railway division's backlog to $21 million.

Soviet Urges Nuclear Test Moratorium

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union said Tuesday the world's nuclear powers should declare a moratorium on all nuclear testing from New Year's Day even if no test ban agreement is reached.

Western spokesmen responded that any unpoliced moratorium was as unacceptable as ever. They recalled how the Soviets broke a three-year moratorium with a series of weapons tests in the fall of 1961.

The spokesmen said the West is prepared to stop testing only if it has adequate safeguards against cheating by the Russians. The Soviet move, they said, was an obvious propaganda gambit aimed at public opinion among the neutral and so-called nonaligned nations.

Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin blamed the United States and Britain again for the lack of progress by the test ban subcommittee of the 17-nation Disarmament Conference.

He said no formal agreement can be reached "while the West persists in its old and unacceptable positions" — an obvious reference to Western insistence on fool-proof guarantees against cheating.

Tsarapkin said nuclear testing in all environments should be stopped by Jan. 1 in line with last month's United Nations General Assembly resolution, even though the talks here are deadlocked on the question of international inspection of suspected underground blasts.

Cave-In Kills Four Workmen

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (AP)—Four workmen believed buried underneath the rubble of a space construction project cave-in were identified Tuesday, but the Air Force estimated it may be days before rescuers can reach the bodies.

The men were identified by the contract as Ernie Beitel, carpenter's superintendent, Manchester, Tenn.; W. D. Lowrie, carpenter, Monteagle, Tenn.; W. A. Anderson, laborer, Beech Grove, Tenn.; and Woodrow Darden, laborer, Normandy, Tenn.

The men were feared to have been killed when a construction form crumbled at a 250-foot underground rocket test silo and dumped 840 tons of new concrete to the floor below.

The concrete, being poured as part of the roof on a huge new test facility at the Air Force's Arnold Engineering Development Center, collapsed late Monday.

This facility is one of many operated here for testing Air Force planes, missiles and rockets before they are put into actual use.

There was no immediate explanation of the collapse, which occurred as work shifts were changing.

JFK Decides On Sending Mission

Concern Cited Over New Bid By Russians

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States agreed Tuesday to a request from Secretary-General U Thant to strengthen the U.N. force in the Congo with additional U.S. military equipment.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said the United States acted in support of Thant, who is pressing President Moise Tshombe for a showdown on an end to secession of Katanga province from the Congo.

Informants here said that air transport equipment would make up the bulk of the U.S. contribution.

Reached Monday

U.S. informants at Nassau, where President Kennedy is meeting with British Prime Minister Macmillan, said the decision was reached at the White House Monday amid increasing U.S. concern over some new bid by the Russians to establish a power position in the Congo.

These informants would not exclude the possibility that in an extreme crisis the United States would consider putting some American forces in the Congo.

Stevenson said he knew nothing of possible use of U.S. troops, nor about any Soviet bid for power in the Congo.

Informants said the United Nations is doing all it can to keep the cold war out of the Congo. A U.N. spokesman said that dispatch of U.S. troops to the Congo was not involved in the negotiations between Thant and the United States.

"The United States has been doing all it could for a long time to support the U.N. operation in the Congo," Stevenson told a reporter after a conference of more than an hour and a half with Thant.

"This request from the secretary-general for new equipment, to which we responded, is only a further step in the program for moral support."

A spokesman for Thant made requests to several other governments for additional equipment. He declined to name them, or say whether any had responded.

Will Confer Today

A high level U.S. military mission, headed by Lt. Gen. Louis W. Truman, will confer with Thant here Wednesday, then go to the Congo to study the U.N. requirements at first hand.

Robert K. A. Gardiner, who is Thant's chief officer in the Congo, is due here Wednesday from Leopoldville, and will take part in the talks. Brig. I. J. Rikhye, an Indian who is Thant's military advisor, returned Tuesday from New Delhi.

The U.N. force has over 18,000 men, but there have been indications India might seek recall of the Indian contingent of about 5,000.

The United States supplied much of the air transport that brought the U.N. force in the Congo. The United States equipment on scene now is mostly air transport.

Thant is also asking U.N. members to apply economic pressure on Katanga province. He is seeking support for a boycott of copper and cobalt exports.

This is part of Thant's plan for unification of the Congo under a federal type constitution and providing also for a 50-50 division of revenue between the central government and Katanga derived from Katanga's huge mining operations.

Will Guard Mona Lisa

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — President Kennedy Tuesday ordered the Secret Service to guard the Mona Lisa 24 hours a day as long as the famed painting is in the United States.

A special Secret Service detail under veteran White House agent John Campion will begin protecting the painting when it arrives in New York harbor Wednesday aboard the SS France.

The White House said the customs collector in New York had been ordered to give the Mona Lisa free entry as an international courtesy, thus waiving appraisal and examination.

Six Frenchmen traveling with the painting will be admitted as distinguished foreign visitors with no customs examination.

The special Secret Service detail will begin protecting the painting in New York and escort it to the National Gallery of Art in Washington. The 450 year-old work of Leonardo da Vinci will be displayed in the gallery for three weeks.

Kaiser Steel Labor Pact May Solve Many Problems

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Kaiser Steel Co. labor pact is an effort toward solving at a single stroke the most preplexing labor-management problems of the times.

It probably will have some bugs in it that will need revising. But it surely stands as a showpiece of what a willing management and a willing labor union—in this case the AFL-CIO Steelworkers—can do in tackling mutual problems.

In broad terms, the agreement seeks to: (1) reward workers along with management for production success, (2) guarantee employes against losing jobs to machines, (3) eliminate the main cause of strikes, and (4) accomplish all this by enhancing rather than damaging the employer's financial position.

Prof. George W. Taylor of the University of Pennsylvania, chairman of the advisory committee that came up with the plan after a three-year study, called it "a significant breakthrough in the field of labor-management relations."

The agreement, announced Monday night at Fontana, Calif., was hailed by high government officials.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said it was evidence that "by serving a mutual interest individual interests can be served." Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said it represents "the kind of thinking we need to do in this area."

The chief feature is that a new labor-management teamwork incentive has been created through an agreement to share cost savings. Nearly one-third of such savings is to be distributed monthly among workers as a bonus, with the rest going to the company.

About half the company's share would go to taxes, thus benefiting the public to that extent. Of course, part of the workers' bonus would go into income taxes.

Edgar Kaiser, head of the steel firm, said the net result will be higher wages but lower unit production costs.

"The minimum for Kaiser workers will be the rate set by the big steel contracts with the union, but if this plan doesn't produce a lot more for our workers then it just will not be successful," he said.

The planners figure that the worker stake in operating the most economical and efficient level of production will lead almost automatically to even eager acceptance of automation and elimination of unnecessary employes or work practices.

That is where an important second part of the pact comes into play. Workers whose jobs become obsolete can be assigned or trained to other tasks but their income will continue at the same level. This is not regarded as so heavy a management cost item as might appear because normal turnover due to deaths, retirements and quits exceeds automation job losses.

Finally, Kaiser has agreed simply to accept whatever wage levels are set by the rest of the steel industry and pay the cost-sharing bonus on top of it. The Taylor committee says this acceptance of industry pay levels will "do away with contract deadlines with respect to economic issues, contributing greatly to industrial peace."

The Taylor group believes the cost savings sharing plan is a better incentive system than profit-sharing. The worker can do something about cutting costs. But he has little or no say over sales, research, management, expansion or similar policies that are the employer's province.

Border Guard Use Threats On Informers

Defected Officer Says Neighbors Are Utilized

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist border guards use threats of stiff punishment to force East Berliners to inform on neighbors they even suspect are planning to escape to the West, a defected guard officer said Tuesday.

Ex-Maj. Bruno Krajewski, who fled to the West with his family Dec. 7, made the disclosure in an interview broadcast by the American-sponsored radio station RIAS which is beamed to East Germany.

Krajewski said East Berliners living near the wall have orders to call border guards whenever they suspect a fellow Berliner is preparing an escape or face the consequences — including imprisonment.

This "informer's network" is aimed at apprehending an even higher proportion of persons seeking freedom then the 90 per cent now being captured, he said.

Krajewski, drawing on his own knowledge of the area where he was assigned, escaped with his wife, daughter and another couple by cutting through three barbed wire barricades and paddling a rubber dingy across a border river to West Berlin.

The Krajewskis and the other couple have gone to West Germany.

West Berlin police reported that two men who came to within 20 yards of the anti-refugee wall on their motorcycles were arrested by Communist border guards.

The Communists warned Tuesday that continued bomb attacks on the wall could lead to "unpleasant" counter-measures against the West.

Gary Citizens Demand Reforms In Steel City

GARY, IND. (UPI) — The "friendly natives" who sent coconuts to President Kennedy last year, asking his aid in reforming this steel city, vowed Tuesday to storm city hall to demand a complete municipal housecleaning.

The president of the Glen Park Citizens Association, Dale Baxter, said, "we are working for good government and if they appear to be willing to make a good start toward improving the image of Gary" his organization will cooperate.

Baxter said he and a friend took a tour of the city Tuesday and saw five houses of prostitution operating "in broad daylight" and encountered four prostitutes soliciting in the street.

"If the police do not know this is going on, I am very willing to show them," Baxter said.

Monday the 1,000-member civic improvement organization, centered in a residential area of Gary, sent a telegram to city hall demanding resignations from newly inaugurated Mayor John Visclosky, eight other city officials, the Lake County sheriff and the sheriff-elect.

Afterward, Baxter said, an "emissary" from city hall contacted him and set up a meeting with the mayor, tentatively scheduled for Wednesday night.

Last year the Glen Park group sent coconuts to President Kennedy, recalling the President's action when stranded on an island after the sinking o fhis torpedo boat in World War II. The senders signed themselves as "Friendly Natives of Gary."

Baxter said his organization will not accept a "token move" toward cleaning up the city. He indicated the Glen Park group has the support of other civic organizations. "This situation has stirred considerable community interest," he said.

Visclosky became mayor last Wednesday when Mayor George Chacharis switched his plea to guilty to conspiring to evade income tax on $226,000 in kickbacks from construction firms and submitted his resignation as mayor.

Two days after Visclosky took office, the Indiana Board of Accounts blamed Visclosky and other city officials for spending $2.3 million in public funds without regard for state laws governing municipal budgeting.

Saturday Chacharis' tax accountant was found guilty of conspiring with the former mayor in the tax evasion case. The jury deadlocked on a similar charge against city engineer Harold Zweig.

Macmillan gave Kennedy an effusive greeting when the President's plane arrived from Washington at 10:55 a.m. EST. Both men obviously were delighted at the sunshine and blue skies after leaving cold and stormy weather behind.

Many Aides Attend

Kennedy and Macmillan rode in separate limousines to two adjoining estates where they will stay through Thursday. The President rode with Bahamian Gov. Sir Robert Stapledon.

Also in the presidential party were McNamara; Undersecretary of State George W. Ball; McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security matters; William Tyler, assistant secretary of stat for European affairs, and David K. E. Bruce, U. S. ambassador to the United Kingdom.

Macmillan was accompanied by Thorneycroft; British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and a big array of other top aides.

The British were undeniably upset over the Skybolt abandonment. The United States was offering to let Britain take over the program — if it thinks it worthwhile — or try to provide some substitute, such as furnishing Britain the Polaris or other missiles on which the British could put their own warheads.

President Tito Leaves Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia set out for home Tuesday night with Soviet Premier Khrushchev accompanying him as far as Kiev.

The two Communists chiefs, who have seen one another almost every day since Tito arrived Dec. 4, left Moscow aboard Tito's special train.

Khrushchev's gesture in accompanying his guest on his homeward journey was regarded as highly unusual—probably intended as a special honor to a once outlawed Soviet-bloc renegade.

Tawes Proclaims Randall Week

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has proclaimed Jan. 1-7 James Ryder Randall Week in honor of the author of Maryland's state song.

New Year's Day will mark the 124th anniversary of the poem which Randall composed as an appeal to his home state to join the Confederacy in the Civil War.

It was set by music by the Cary sisters of Baltimore and became popular throughout the North as well as the South.

"Maryland, My Maryland" became the official state song by an act of the legislature in 1939.

The governor urged an "appropriate observance of the week by our schools, colleges, historical and patriotic societies, and citizens throughout the state."

Governor Barnett Woos Northern Industrialists

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett wooed 100 northern business and industrial leaders at a closely guarded lunch Tuesday while Negro and white pickets marched outside his hotel.

Barnett, on a hectic industry-recruiting junket in which he shook his fist at a reporter, sought to convince midwestern business that Mississippi was a good place for northern industries to locate plants and do business.

Barnett's luncheon was closed to newsmen and sealed off by uniformed guards of the Burns Security Services.

But newsmen peeking through a crack in a balcony door of the hotel's "great hall" heard the governor report that Mississippi had embarked on a determined program to balance its industrial and agricultural economies since he took office two years ago.

Barnett praised Mississippi's "right to work" law but did not mention the word "union" during his recruiting talk to prominent Chicago bankers, industrialists and businessmen.

Seven pickets — four Negro men, two white women and one white man — paraded outside the downtown hotel. They handed out a mimeographed sheet that questioned whether Mississippi agriculture products were produced by "free labor" and wondered if "some conscientious union" might refuse to handle items produced by "prison labor."

The pickets identified themselves as members of the Congress of Racial Equality, which has been fighting segregation in both the South and north.

Oil Firm Expands

He said the company would continue to diversify by acquiring businesses and properties primarily in the field of natural resources.

Mine Official Is First Victim Of Violence

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Kentucky coal mine official has become the victim of the first violence reported in the area since the start of picketing to enforce certain provisions of the United Mine Workers union contract.

President Don C. Dotson of the Phelps Colliery mine on John's Creek, Pike County, Ky., was taken to a Pikeville hospital Tuesday, several hours after he was shot in the face in a dispute at his operation.

Dotson was struck in the face and eye by several shotgun pellets fired about a half hour after Mingo County authorities arrested three persons on charges of illegal possession of firearms.

It was the first violence reported in this area since UMW members began protesting the failure of some coal mine operators to pay the 40-cent-a-ton royalty to the union's Welfare and Retirement Fund. The dispute forced the closure of numerous small mines and some larger ones until last week end when the question of royalty payments was believed settled.

Magistrate Homer Hall, Matewan, identified the three men arrested as Glen Stump, Bob Hatfield and Herbert Stevens, all of the Phelps area. A hearing is scheduled Friday.

Phelps general manager J. L. Dotson, brother of Don Dotson said the incident occurred after 25 to 30 pickets showed up to close down the operation which had reopened Monday followed a three-week layoff.

Pickets also showed up at Phelps' Lick Fork operation in Mingo County Monday to keep the mine closed.

Roving bands of pickets also shot down the Peter White Coal Co., at Isaban, McDowell County and the Winston Coal and Construction Co., on Gilbert Creek in Mingo County.

Tate Brown, manager of the Isaban operation, said between 30 and 50 pickets showed up at the mine Tuesday. He said his mine employes about 100 persons and the Winston mine from 20 to 25.

House Owner Faces 1,823 Code Counts

BALTIMORE (AP) — A second row house owner was charged Tuesday on more than 1,800 counts of violating Baltimore's housing code.

The Bureau of Building Inspection cited Bernard Turk on 1,823 counts of unlawfully operating a multiple dwelling without obtaining a license or a temporary certificate.

The charges, carrying a maximum $182,300 in fines, were filed on the basis for one for each day between Dec. 8, 1957, when the multiple housing law took effect, and Dec. 5, 1962. The maximum fine for each count is $100.

In another case, the city has charged Joseph Rosenberg on 1,806 counts of operating an unregistered and unlicensed multiple dwelling. The charges were placed after five children died in a fire that gutted one of Rosenberg's row houses last Nov. 18.

Succumbs Anyway

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Money in the bank and special care failed to save a 150-year-old elm tree.

The tree became the victim of Dutch elm disease despite the fact the late Jennie M. Arms Sheldon had set up a trust fund for its preservation.

The tree — on the campus of Deerfield Academy — was even equipped with a lightning rod.

The small trust for the 110-foot-tall tree had been administered by the school since 1938.

80 Prisoners Get Present From Governor

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has a Christmas present for 80 prisoners at Maryland penal institutions.

He's commuting their sentences, effective Saturday, so they can be with their families for the holidays.

Most of the prisoners are serving relatively minor sentences which are scheduled to expire between Dec. 25 and Jan. 25. They were recommended for early release by heads of the institutions and were screened by the State Board of Parole and Probation.

The governor customarily issues such commutations at Christmas time.

No Santa For Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland told East Germans Tuesday their stockings will not be full this Christmas because the government is not Santa Claus. Replying to complaints about the lack or poor quality of television set, kitchen equipment, bicycles and clothing, it said: "the Socialist society is not Santa Claus with a bag full of gifts. Society can only distribute what its members produce.

Dorsal To Dorsal Census

SANDY HOOK, N.J. (AP) — The American Littoral Society counts its fish before they're caught.

The group numbers about 200 natural history enthusiasts of all ages who conduct a dorsal to dorsal census on the coastal fish population from Maine to Florida.

All are capable skin divers who, in addition to enjoying themselves, provide the U.S. Department of the Interior with information on the quality and habits of fish.

The converts to stogies are Mrs. Joseph Higgins (left), of Medway, Mass., and Mrs. Gerlinde Zimmer, who says she smoked cigars in Europe before she moved to the United States.

The fire Sunday caused an estimated $500,000 damage and burned out the major portion of a business block.

Deputy Fire Marshal C. Edward Wyatt of Lewes said the chimney in the Avenue Restaurant overheated.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes is expected to appoint James W. Curran as head of Maryland's prison system.

Although he said he does not plan to make the appointment immediately, the governor told a newsman he would take positive action if the present quality of Curran's work continues.

Curran is now acting commissioner of correction.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The University of Maryland will receive $3,483 from the National Fund for Graduate Nursing Education.

The grant was announced Tuesday by George F. Smith, president of the fund. Catholic University in Washington will receive $7,454.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—Construction of a new protective sand dune along the beach in Ocean City is nearing completion.

The sand is being dredged from Sinepuxent Bay and piled in a line along the beach. The work is proceeding a few blocks north of the boardwalk at 27th Street.

When it reaches 45th street, it will close the final gap in the line that extends from the Delaware border to south of 14th Street.

BALTIMORE (AP(— The U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued new milk marketing orders applying in the Washington and Upper Chesapeake Bay areas. The present orders expire Dec. 31.

The new orders set minimum prices for Class I bottling milk at seven cents below average prices in the New York-New Jersey and Philadelphia markets.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Richard N. Jackson, former lumber manufacturing executive and banking director, died Tuesday at his home in suburban Stevenson. He was 79.

Jackson retired two years ago as treasurer of E. E. Jackson Lumber Co. of Baltimore. A native of Salisbury, he also was a director of Mercantile Trust Co.

New Leads Sought In $8,000 Robbery

SHARPTOWN, Md. (AP) State Police and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were studying information Tuesday in an attempt to develop new leads in an $8,000 Eastern Shore bank robbery.

The money was stolen Monday from a branch bank of the Maryland National Bank in Sharptown, a rural community near the Maryland-Delaware line in Wicomico County. The town has a population of about 620 persons and has no police force.

Lt. Thomas E. Veditz, commander of the Salisbury State Police barracks, said investigators were trying to back up theories with facts.

The masked bandit, brandishing a revolver, locked three bank employes in the vault and sped away in a green car. The U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Insurance Co. has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the bandit.

Grand Jury Indicts Teamster Officials

BALTIMORE (AP) — The federal grand jury returned indictments Tuesday against two Teamsters Union officials, charging them with violating the Taft-Hartley Act by receiving money from trucking firms.

Emerson Donald Insley, 55, of suburban Woodlawn, described as an employe of Joint Council 62 of the Teamsters Union, was charged in two counts with receiving $3,000 in 1958 from the Service Trucking Co. of Federalsburg.

Charles Guild Griffin, 38, of Reisterstown, described as secretary-treasurer of Local 333 of the Brewery, Yeast Soft Drink Workers and Driver Salesmen, Amusement and Vending Servicemen and Allied Workers, was charged in three counts with conspiracy.

Insley also was charged in the three counts with conspiring with Griffin to receive $6,000, and with receiving that amount on two different dates in 1961, from Gilbert A. Banning, president and owner of Service Trucking.

The maximum penalties on the five counts against Insley are five years imprisonment and $50,000 in fines. The three counts against Griffin could amount to three years in prison and $30,000 in fines.

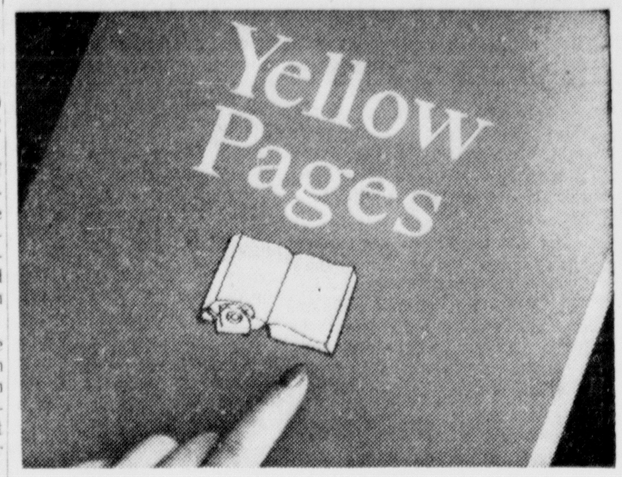

Service Trucking Co. and Banning were convicted in U.S. District Court earlier this year on income tax charges.

After the trial in Easton, Banning was sentenced to six months in federal prison but has since been paroled. His company was fined $2,500 and assessed an additional $1,124 for court costs.

Newsman Visits Indian Front In Himalayis

By MICHAEL T. MALLOY

CHUSUL, Ladakh (UPI) —The temperature at this Indian airbase in the Ladakh region of Kashmir was 25 below zero when the Chinese Communists attacked Nov. 18. It will register 40 or 45 below when winter reaches its peak.

"Here we are fighting two enmies," a divisional commander said. "One is China and the other is nature." Icicles dangling from his black beard lent emphasis to his words.

The Chinese have not struck against the Indian lines since their self-proclaimed cease - fire Nov. 21 but the struggle with nature has become more severe as the terrain and climate that combine the worst features of the Sahara Desert and the North Pole.

The worst is the altitude. New arrivals to this 14,500-foot high headquarters are afflicted with dizzy spells, headaches and an overwhelming feeling of weakness. For the first few days it is impossible to sleep because of a choking feeling and feverish nightmares.

Sand Ankle-Deep

The arid desert landscape is no comfort. The land between the Himlayan peaks is flat and barren and covered with ankle-deep sand that slows and quickly exhausts patrolling soldiers.

Despite these drawbacks local Indian commanders feel they made a good showing in the brief Chinese offensive.

"As long as we have inflicted the maximum of casualties on the enemy we have achieved our objective," a corps commander said. He said the Indians lost only 491 killed, wounded and missing throughout Ladakh while the Chinese suffered an estimated 2,500 casualties.

But the Chinese occupied all of the 15,000 square miles they claim in Ladakh. Their present cease-fire line exactly follows the Chinese version of the disputed frontier.

Forces Spread Thinly

Senior officers say there was little that could be done to prevent the Chinese advance because the Indian forces were spread thinly among posts of 10 to 30 men in fixed positions.

For this reason most outposts were evacuated without waiting for the Chinese attack. Where the Indians did fight delaying actions the combat was desperate and bloody.

Here at Chusul, for instance, one company of 125 men lost 114 killed and 9 wounded.

The Red advance swallowed up all the hard-to-defend parts of Ladakh and the corps commander said the "terrain is with us now."

From here on the Chinese would have to advance into the same roadless, 23,000-foot high mountain ranges which had prevented the Indian army from reinforcing or supplying its troops on a scale needed to stop the Chinese offensive.

The airstrip at Chusul and a smaller strip at Daulet Beg Oldi in Northern Ladakh are now in a no man's land between the two armies.

Red-Blooded Reporting

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — George Foster, a reporter for the Waterbury American, was assigned to check the progress of a Red Cross bloodmobile visit. He was confronted by a smiling volunteer who said: "Yours will be the 100th pint."

It was.

U.S. Asks UN To Help End Red Oppression

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The United States has submitted a resolution asking United Nations Secretary General Thant to take action to end Communist oppression existing in Hungary since the 1956 freedom revolt.

The U.S. decision to force a new showdown on the Hungarian question was a rebuff to a reported informal offer by Hungary's government to send Josef Cardinal Mindszenty to freedom outside the country and grant an amnesty for 1956 political prisoners if the issue could be dropped in the General Assembly.

The new measure, asking Thant to "take any initiative he deems helpful," would end the mandate of Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, the second special U.N. representative to be ignored by Hungary since the assembly created that post in 1957.

The switch from a special representative to give the Hungarian question to the secretary general was considered significant because Hungary has extended, and Thant has accepted "in principle," an invitation for him to visit Budapest.

No date has been set for Thant's visit to Hungary and backers of the U.S. resolution said such a trip was a matter for him to decide. Thant, on a swing of Eastern Europe late last summer, did not visit Hungary, although he had an invitation from the Budapest regime at that time.

U.S. sources said no offer had been received from Hungary suggesting a swap of Mindszenty's freedom in return for agreement not to press assembly action in the Hungarian question.

But it was learned last week that Hungarian diplomats, whose relations with U.S. delegates are not warm, had sought intermediaries to put that offer, together with an amnesty for an estimated 20 prisoners still held for 1956 activities, to the United States.

Both the Vatican and U.S. sources said that the key point of the reported Hungarian offer was that Mindszenty must leave the country, where he has been in political asylum at the U.S. legation since 1956. This the cardinal refuses to do, insisting that his duties as Roman Catholic primate of Hungary require him to stay there.

Big 3 Stand Firm On Berlin

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States, Britain and France gently but firmly notified the Soviet Union they had as much right in Berlin as anybody.

Similar notes from the three Western powers to the Soviet Foreign Ministry reminded the Soviet that Berlin's legal status has "remained unchanged since 1945."

Technically, the notes were a rejection of a Nov. 29 Soviet protest to the big three about court action in West Berlin to ban "The Association of Victims of Nazi Persecution."

The West German government, which brought the suit before the federal administrative court in West Berlin, contends that the association actually is a cover up for the outlawed West Germany Communist party.

The Soviet also had charged that the federal administrative court was located illegally in West Berlin. The Allied notes rejected this, noting it had been established there 10 years ago with the agreement of the Allied Kommandatura — the three Western and Soviet commandants.

The U.S. note said the West German government "is acting in full accordance with the provisions of the basic law and with regular legal procedures which assure to persons or organizations involved the extensive guarantees always available in a democratic society for the maintenance of civil liberty."

Warning From The Wall

MERIDEN, Conn. (AP) — Flames crept up the wall and snapped the cord that held a picture.

The picture fell and bumped 82-year-old Charles Parker on the head as he slept in his bed.

Parker wakened, and escaped the fire in his room without apparent injury.

Sign Pledges To End Smoking

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — University of Wisconsin medical students this week were signing pledges to stop smoking or never to start.

Dr. Robert Samp, an assistant professor of surgery, asked the pledge of third year medical students. He said 74 of the 86 students had signed.

Samp said the pledge was meant as an example to young people in fact of "overwhelming scientific evidence of the dangers of cigarette smoking to health and its significant casual relationship to many diseases, especially lung cancer."

He said 10 of the students did not sign the pledge because they felt they could not stop smoking or because they objected to such a group action.

Britons May Renounce Titles To Seek Office

LONDON (AP) — A parliamentary committee recommended today that Britons who inherit titles be given the right to renounce them.

This would make it possible for reluctant peers to run for the House of Commons, a privilege which they now are denied. Since British prime ministers always in modern times have been chosen from the ranks of the House of Commons, the law as it stands, in effect, debars peers from aspiring to the nation's highest political office.

The committee, representing both the House of Commons and the House of Lords, was appointed earlier this year. Its recommendations are unlikely to encounter any serious parliamentary opposition and probably will become law next year.

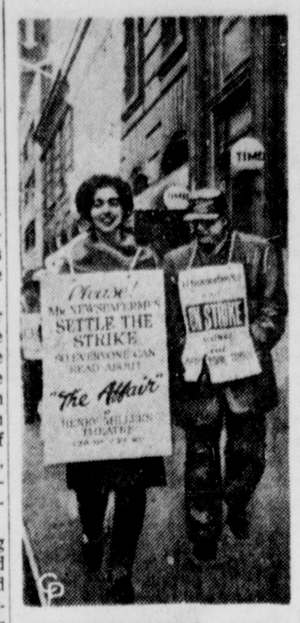

The issue was brought to a head in 1960 when a Laborite House of Commons member named Anthony Wedgewood Benn became, upon the death of his father, Lord Stansgate.

Benn tried in vain to renounce the title, refused to qualify as a member of the House of Lords and insisted upon running for reelection in his House of Commons district in Bristol. He won the election, but was denied a seat in the House of Commons on the ground that as the law stands peers are not eligible.

Another reluctant peer is Lord Hailsham, minister for science and technology and Conservative party leader in the House of Lords. As Quentin Hogg, he was the House of Commons member for Oxford until he succeeded to his father's title in 1950. He, too, tried in vain to avoid becoming a peer.

Christmas Mail Heavier This Year

Overall Christmas mailing business continued at a pace well ahead of last year on a day-to-day basis and letter cancellations Monday sent that department well in front of the same time a year ago.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said cancellations Monday totaled 259,000, the largest so far, during the so-called Christmas mailing period which started 10 days ago. Total cancellations as of the end of business was 1,290,000 compared to 1,155,000 the same time a year ago.

Overall business yesterday, including letters, parcel post, etc., was 449,000 bringing the total to 2,793,000 compared to 2,627,000 the same period a year ago.

Conlon said that at the present time, the Post Office is making a greater use of regular employes than ever before during the Christmas rush. Production has increased considerably compared to previous years. Fewer temporary employes are currently employed, he added.

Saturday, stamp and parcel post windows will be open at the main office here, Station A in South End and at LaVale from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Sunday, the three units will be open from noon to 4 p. m., he added.

Russia's Top Economic Planner Gets Vote Of Confidence In Latest Shuffle

MOSCOW (UPI) — Among the men who emerged with an evident vote of confidence from the recent high level Soviet government and party reshuffle is the nation's top economic planner, Veniamin Dymshits.

Dymshits is the only Jew among the upper echelons of the Soviet hierarchy. And because of the continued question of anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union, the fortunes of the 52-year-old-engineer and economic expert have attracted special attention.

Soviet propaganda media even have used his higher status — Chairman of the Economic Council of the USSR, a newly created body — to support claims that anti-Semitism does not exist in the USSR.

From all evidence however, Dymshits is not a practicing Jew and, as a member of the Party's powerful Central Committee, it is almost certain he accepts the party's official dogma of atheism.

Dymshits is another of the USSR's growing list of men who have reached high positions after a long climb up through the ranks.

When he was appointed chairman of the former State Planning Committee (Gosplan) last July he also was given the rank of a USSR Deputy Premier which traditionally goes with the Gosplan job.

At that time the question of his Jewish background was particularly put into focus because no other Jew had held such a high government post since former party presidium member and vice premier Lazar Kaganovich.

Kaganovich lost both his jobs in 1957 after being labeled a member of the so-called anti-party group.

But even at the time of Kaganovich's ouster, Dymshits was virtually the next ranking Jew in the Soviet hierarchy. He then held the title of USSR deputy minister for construction of metallurgical and chemical industries enterprises.

He was then sent as chief engineer in charge of construction of the Bhilai metallurgical plant in India, one of the most ballyhooed symbols of Soviet aid to that country.

Returning in 1961, Dymshits was named deputy vice chairman of Gosplan and when former chairman Vladimir Novikov was moved to another key job last July, Dymshits moved logically into the chairmanship.

Under Premier Khrushchev's reorganization plan, aimed at pepping up the Soviet economy, Dymshits' State Planning Committee (Gosplan) was given a new name and expanded functions — the Economic Council of the USSR.

Married and a father, Dymshits has a long background of technical and planning experience, much of it in the Ukraine, where many of the top men under Khrushchev received their early training.

Carl Schell New Director Of Maryland Mine Bureau

The Maryland Bureau of Mines has a new director, Carl A. Schell, Kitzmiller a former miner who captained that town's national championship mine rescue team for two years.

He succeeds Frank T. Powers, Frostburg, who will retire on December 31 after 43 years four months service with the Bureau of Mines and its predecessor.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes through James Morton, an assistant, informed Schell of his appointment that will become effective January 2.

Schell just retired earlier this months as president of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, a position he held for four years.

The new director has spent 30 years as a miner. A resident of Kitzmiller since 1942, he resided in Gorman in Garrett County prior to that time.

In national competition in 1951 and 1952, the Kitzmiller mine rescue team captained by Schell came out first place.

Schell was one of four applicants for Powers' position and took the competitive examination in July 1961. He is a Democrat.

Schell is married and has four children and one adopted child.

Powers had his term extended from the compulsory retirement age at two different times by the General Assembly.

Change In Dog Law Asked By Society

The Animal Welfare Society of Allegany County yesterday asked the county commissioners to set up a meeting in the near future at which some proposed revisions in the county dog law would be discussed.

A letter from the society, signed by Mrs. Florence Finan, secretary, stated that recent complaints about the county dog pound are not quite accurate. The group stated that although the dog pound does not meet the full requirements of the Animal Humane Society it is adequate for the present.

The society stated that plans and drawings for a dog pound which would meet the Animal Humane Society standards is available if the commissioners wished to go into such a project.

Water Action Is Asked By Area Couple

A couple from Big Savage Mountain appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to acquaint them with a situation regarding their water supply.

Mrs. Frances E. Morton, and her husband, Lloyd, told the board that the town of Frostburg wants to use a site on the mountain for a garbage dump and this poses a health hazard to the approximately 30 families in that area on the east slope of the mountain.

Mrs. Morton read a report from the Soil Conservation Service at Beltsville regarding the terrain and type of rock strata on the mountain and also the probable drainage of both surface and subsurface water into the area where wells are located on the various properties.

Besides the danger of pollution of their water supply, Mrs. Morton pointed to the air pollution from burning which would transpire at any dump.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the county board, told the Morton's that the best method of handling the problem would be to contact the State Department of Health as the proposed garbage dump site is in Garrett County while the residents affected reside in Allegany County.

The commissioners told the couple that State Health Department officials will be in Cumberland today and they would advise them at that time of the problem and request that a check into the matter be made by the state agency.

Allegany Honor Society To Sponsor Tutor Help

The Allegany High School Chapter of the National Honor Society will sponsor a tutoring project this coming report card period.

Forty-five students filed applications for assistance with their studies. Forty requests were filed in the study of mathematics, language and science. Three-fourths of the applicants applied for help with either geometry or algebra.

Miss Sue Mowen, as vice president of the chapter, is chairman of the tutoring project.

This year's program is somewhat complicated by the staggered school schedules, making it difficult for the tutor to meet the student.

However, Miss Mowen overcame this barrier by arranging to have school opened early to these students.

Other tutors meet their students during study periods, activity periods or after school hours.

The tutoring system began at Allegany High School in 1958 when Paul Ossip was president of the society.

Allegany High has the only National Honor Society chapter in the area offering a tutoring service.

To be elected to the society, a student must meet high academic standings along with showing leadership abilities.

Memorial Park To Donate Deer

The board of directors of Sunset Memorial Park has voted to donate a deer as a Christmas gift to the children of the City of Cumberland to replace "Jasper" the Constitution Park pet who was killed sometime Saturday night and carted away.

In a telegram to Mayor Earl D. Chaney signed by Richard F. Cody, president of Sunset Memorial Park, Bedford Road, he said:

"After a special meeting last night of the board of directors of Sunset Memorial Park, I am authorized to donate as a Christmas gift to the children of the City of Cumberland, a young deer to replace the one that met its end through treachery. Please reply at once so we can take immediate steps to arrange delivery to Constitution Park. Merry Christmas."

Meanwhile, the hunt for the slayer of "Jasper," who was felled by a hunting arrow, dragged from his pen and apparently hauled away in a vehicle, is continuing.

"Jasper" had been a park fixture the past 14 years. He would have been 15 years old next spring.

County Protests Reserve Move

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution protesting the Department of Defense plan to transfer Company B, 336th Military Police Battalion, from Lonaconing to Lewes, Delaware.

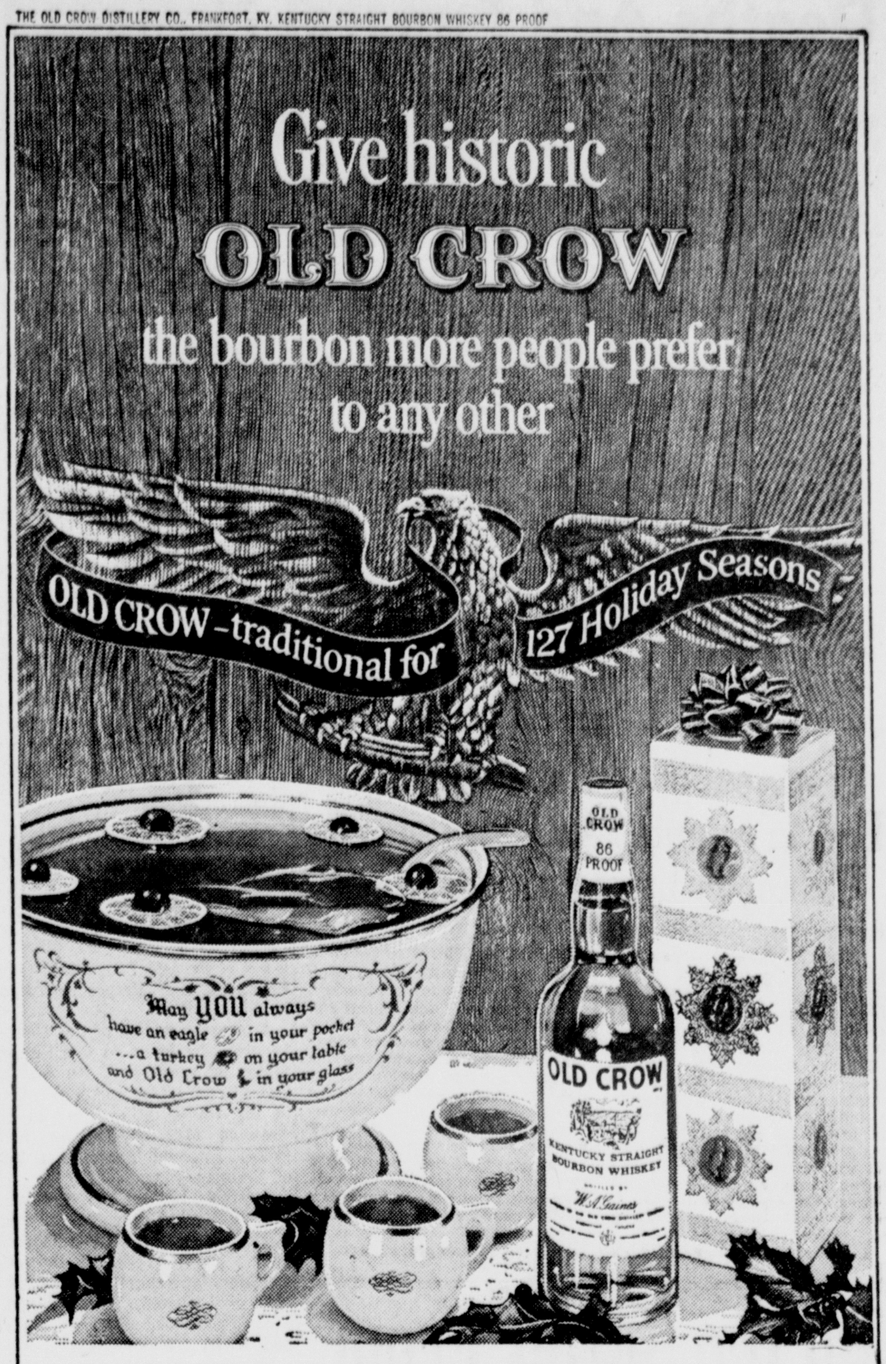

The resolution was adopted at the request of Mayor Harold W. Moyer of Lonaconing, Ernest L. Thrasher, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5280, and James M. Berry, commander of the American Legion Post 92, both of Lonaconing.

It was pointed out that the members of the Army Reserve unit had been fully trained and are combat-ready while an entirely new MP unit at Lewes would require some years before it would be completely trained.

If such a transfer were to be made it was suggested that it be moved to Cumberland so that the reservists could continue in service. It was pointed out that the MP unit's monthly payroll is about $2,000.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Sen.-elect Daniel Brewster, Rep. Charles McMathias and Rep.-elect Carlton Sickles.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN*.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONITIN—available at all drug stores without prescription.

Do You Suffer From Sick, Throbbing Migraine Headaches?

New Medical Discovery Never Before Available Now Released To Public. No Prescription Needed.

Today, science has announced a doctor's new formula which has been especially developed to relieve both the throbbing pain and sickish feeling of migraine-type headaches. Tests conducted by a practicing New York physician showed that in patient after patient—pain-relief and comfort were obtained in minutes. And all without the use of narcotics, codeine or ergot remedies which may upset the stomach and so further aggravate the condition.

This remarkable new formula is called Duplexin*. It is the first headache discovery in the history of medicine with this exclusive formula, (a unique 2-layer pink and white tablet). It relieves both headache pain and a sick, upset stomach with this exclusive formula.

Here are the medical facts why Duplexin is safer, faster, more effective—why it's unlike the usual headache remedies. Only Duplexin unites powerful doctor-approved pain relievers with this special stomach-soothing antacid. In seconds, Duplexin does what no aspirin or buffered aspirin can ever do. It contains exclusive, hospital-tested medications not found in any alkalizer or seltzer. Duplexin's white layer concentrates on relieving pain faster. Throbbing pain relieved in minutes. Its pink layer relieves that sickish feeling and protects your stomach as it keeps on speeding relief.

Duplexin also calms nervous stress (which so often causes migraine) and helps relieve depression. Taken at the first sign of an attack, Duplexin actually helps prevent those migraine pains. Ask for Duplexin Tablets at any drugstore. Now available without prescription.

W. Va. Budget Cutting Job Continues

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Board of Public Works completed a rough run - through Tuesday in its attempts to slice a recommended $152.3 million state budget for fiscal 1963-64 to about $148 million.

The board has been working since last Thursday to trim the $152 million recommendation by State Finance Commissioner Truman E. Gore. It was estimated the final decision might be reached sometime Wednesday.

The bulky budget document must be in order prior to the opening of the 1963 Legislature Jan. 9.

The decision to cut the proposal came after board members decided they should not include an anticipated surplus of $4 million from the current fiscal year in the 1963-64 budget recommendation.

Lengthy deliberation has centered around the State Welfare Department's $22.5 million budget request, trimmed to $15.8 million in Gore's original recommendation.

Sarver Named Tax Director

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—J. William Sarver, Fairmont, has succeeded H. Clifford Lantz as new state income tax director, it was announced Monday by State Tax Commissioner G. Thomas Battle.

Lantz was appointed assistant tax commissioner last October when Battle replaced commissioner C. Howard Hardesty, Fairmont, who resigned.

The 27-year-old Sarver graduated from the West Virginia University Law School last spring and has since served as general legal assistant to State Auditor Denzil Gainer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Sarver of Fairmont.

Sarver spent three years as a Naval officer after receiving his degree in economics from WVU in 1956 and before earning his law degree. While in law school he was an editor on the WVU Law Review and won a Board of Governors' academic scholarship during the 1961-62 academic year.

FBI Investigating Vote Buying In Berkeley County

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department confirmed Tuesday that it is investigating a complaint of vote buying in the Nov. 6 election in Berkeley County, W. Va.

The Department's civil rights division said it could not disclose who made the complaint, but a West Virginia source said it was Ernest J. Edison of Martinsburg, president of a clean elections organization.

The FBI is making the investigation for the civil rights division. A civil rights spokesman said one of the things to be determined is whether a federal election is involved, since it would have jurisdiction only in a federal election.

Court Upholds Women's Right To Hold Office

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Ohio County Intermediate Court Judge James G. McClure ruled unconstitutional Tuesday any state or local law which prohibits a woman from running for public office.

The ruling was touched off by Virginia Kessler, 34, who filed a suit against nearby Triadelphia City Council after that body refused to put her name on the ballot for the Jan. 3 city election.

Council attorneys told McClure during arguments last week that they had no objection to having a woman on that body but that they had to abide by the town's 122-year-old charter which restricts council membership to "six fit and able men."

McClure said the charter's provision violates U. S. Constitution's 14th Amendment which provides that all persons born in the United States shall have the right to run for public office.

James C. McDermott, attorney for Miss Kessler, a secretary for Pride Associates in Wheeling, inferred during last week's arguments that the same amendment (the 19th) which gave women the right to vote also gave them the right to seek public office.

McClure disagreed, saying the 19th Amendment made no specific reference to the right to hold public office. The judge ruled Tuesday that the prohibition violated the Constitution's 14th Amendment.

Council was not expected to appeal the ruling by McClure.

City solicitor William Hollandsworth said at the time of the arguments that council—for to abide by its charter in rejecting Miss Kessler's petition—would abide by the judge's ruling in the case.

He noted at that time that the town's charter had remained unchanged since its adoption in 1840. He said voters had a chance to amend it in 1956 but that they rejected proposed changes.

The U. S. Census Bureau announced the special farm labor questions will include inquiries on the number of days worked during 1962, cash wages or salary received during the year and the type of work done such as with livestock, machines or hand labor.

The information is being collected for the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Department of Labor.

The questions on farm labor are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment unemployment which are asked each month in the survey.

Mrs. Olive E. Claar, 885 Ridgedale Avenue, collects information locally.

Birth Control Pills Given By Health Dept.

BALTIMORE (AP) — For the first time in its history, the Baltimore Health Department is dispensing birth control pills to women on relief.

Dr. Robert E. Farber, city health commissioner, said Friday the pill known as Enovid has been given through medical care prescriptions for about a month.

He said other contraceptives are not being distributed at this time, but are being considered. "Others are not being dispensed because of the danger that some women might resell them after getting them," Dr. Farber said.

The health commissioner also said that his public health nurses who visit mothers of newborn babies during the first two weeks after birth, are referring mothers who ask for help to planned parenthood clinics.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Those close huddles going on between Eddie Fisher and Natalie Wood in New York are nothing to worry Ann-Margaret or Warren Beatty—they are about an exciting movie plan Eddie has for Natalie.

Liz Taylor's estranged husband is going ahead with plans to produce "The Gouffe Case" which was originally bought to star Elizabeth. For reasons best known to himself, Eddie has changed the title to "The Goddess of Evil"—and he is after Natalie to play the part Elizabeth would have played had she remained Mrs. Fisher.

Between Natalie's dates in New York plugging "Gypsy," Eddie is trying to synchronize a time when they can start filming this project for his independent Ramrod productions.

Every light in every shop and store, office and apartment building along the route of the Emperor and Empress of Japan to the Tokyo premiere of "Mutiny On the Bounty" will be burning brightly—making the MGM sea spectacle one of the most "lit up" first nights in history.

It marks the third time that the Emperor of Japan has ever attended a public showing of a picture — something to celebrate about. Also, all the bright lights are excellent means of helping the Japanese equivalent of the FBI to keep close security guard over the ruler—which isn't being played up.

There'll be added illumination with the attendance of Marlon Brando, Tarita and Trevor Howard.

So many Hollywood stars are going up on the chartered flight to Las Vegas for Debbie Reynolds' opening at the Riviera tomorrow night, Debbie is going to think she's back home when she looks over the footlights.

Among those cheering her on in her new nightclub career will be Dinah Shore, Vince Edwards (not together), the Pat Boones, Debbie's good friend Marge Champion, Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin, the David Janssens, Robert Cummins, Helen and Spike Jones. Eva Gabor also goes along, although she caught the act when Debbie put on a private showing here for close friends and her family.

Eva got hysterical over Debbie's impersonation of Zsa Zsa Gabor, her sister. Later, the girls posed for pictures together looking exactly like the Gabor sisters.

Shirley MacLaine is doing a hot burn over the buzz-buzz that the contract suit she filed against Hal Wallis has thrown hundreds of people out of work at Christmas time.

"When it comes to providing employment for actors and technicians, I think few actresses can match my record," says Shirley, her dander up. "I have made 16 films right here in Hollywood. In fact, the only one I've ever made away from Hollywood was 'My Geisha' for my husband's company in Japan. I'll put that record against anyone's."

The miffed lady adds that the movie under dispute, "First Wife", wasn't due to start until late January anyway. So how could she have kept people from going on salary before Christmas?

Giving credence to the gossip that the romance between tempestuous opera star Maria Callas and her long-time admirer, multi-millionaire Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, isn't what it used to be, is this word out of Italy:

Maria wants to make a movie. She feels if the late Grace Moore could soar to the movie top, so can she. But the "backer" gossipped to be putting up the money is Count Jean Agenlli of the Fiat Motor fortune. Don't get the wrong idea. There's nothing romantic brewing between Maria and the automobile tycoon. Maybe, like she, he's an opera lover.

Believe me, Dorothy Manners lost no time getting the jewelry the thieves missed in the robbery of her apartment into a safe deposit vault. She returned from dinner Friday night to find she had been robbed of three fur stoles, silver, and other pieces of jewelry not so well hidden. While other things were far more valuable, the loss of her wallet with her social security card, credit cards and checks made out for Christmas gifts, is very inconvenient and of no value to the burglar.

Opening lead: Six of ♣ South performed as if he possessed built-in radar in today's hand, when he successfully navigated his ship past bad distributional breaks of which he had no advance warning.

After South's jump rebid of three spades, North knew that big things were brewing for the partnership. When the responder's holding contains all the essentials of an opening bid, and partner has opened and then jumped, the responder should be alerted to the nearness of a slam. His invitation took the form of a leap to five spades — an overbid of the game. South cheerfully proceeded to six.

West opened his singleton club and the ace was played from the dummy. Norths shortness in both hearts and diamonds was a welcome sight to declarer, for it gave him the opportunity to ruff out all three of his red suit losers. However, South had to exercise considerable care in order to avoid an overruff.

At trick two he led a heart to his ace and then he cashed the king, discarding a small diamond from the dummy. The ten of hearts was ruffed with the three of spades, and the queen of diamonds was played next. South put up the ace and returned the three of diamonds. He was careful in trumping this time, to use North's king of spades, rather than the eight. This was a safety play designed to prevent an opponent from overruffing with the queen of spades and then returning a trump before declarer's washing was completed.

A club was now led from the dummy and South trumped with the ace of spades for the same reason that he had employed North's king previously. The jack of diamonds was ruffed with the eight of spades and, tho East was able to overruff with the queen, declarer could claim the balance with high trumps.

Observe that, if South ruffs the three of diamonds with the eight of spades, he can be defeated by the overruff and trump return. The seven-one division in diamonds is highly unexpected to be sure, but the concession of a possible overtrick is certainly a cheap enough price to pay for assurance of the contract.

Secrets Of Charm

A Family Affair

It's always more fun for the entire family when the youngsters can enter into the festivities. Let them help decorate the tree. They will feel a part of it and look forward each year to this family fun. After all, you want the holiday fun to spread out before and during the big day.

Let the children wrap their own presents. They can make gay and individual cards of matching or contrasting paper. Suggest that they tuck candy canes under the gift ribbon to make their gifts more attractive.

One job they all love is making "snow" for the tree. You can give each member of the family his own bowl or pail plus a package of soap flakes. Add a little water slowly into each bowl, add soap, pass around the egg beater. Then, let everyone whip up a big drift of "snow." Be sure it's whipped stiff.

Make a party of decorating the tree. Let everyone help. Put on one layer of the "snow" at a time, and let it dry. It will last for weeks. It won't melt . . . even with a roaring fire in the fireplace.

Children can also make a decorative gift wrapping with some of the soapsuds left over. Cover gift box with a sturdy, colored paper. Take a liberal amount of the stiffly beaten soapsuds and place in a pastry tube. With this make a pretty design on the gift box or write the name of the person receiving the gift. Sprinkle it with some red, green, pastel-colored, silver, or gold dust, let it set until hard. Then, let the young people deliver the presents in person. Their special effort will be rewarded when they see the pleasure received.

Court House Closes Monday

The Court House will be closed on Monday before Christmas and New Years to provide county workers with a long weekend holiday.

Meetings of the county commissioners will be held on the Wednesday after Christmas and New Years.

Commissioners Russell Carder also stated that county road workers will get the two Mondays off subject to recall in case of an emergency such as a snowstorm. The men will receive straight time pay if recalled.

The commissioners yesterday also approved a five per cent salary increase for C. Lee Renaud, director of the County Planning and Zoning Commission. The money for the salary increase is contained in the commission's budget.

Police Change Traffic Signs

The Cumberland Police Department yesterday was in the process of changing traffic control on East First Street.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said posts and signs were being erected on East First Street from Wempe Drive through Massachusetts Avenue.

In the future traffic on East First Street will have to yield the right-of-way to vehicles traveling on the "side streets."

The work is being done under the supervision of Sgt. E. Gordon Hite, head of the city's Traffic Bureau, and is the first step of a program scheduled for the Maple Side area.

Lonaconing Is Revising Its Charter

LONACONING — This community is engaged in a charter revision program which is scheduled to be completed in time to include the new code in the revision of the public local laws of Maryland scheduled to be published next spring.

The Mayor and Council, with town attorney James S. Getty, discussed proposed charter changes recently with Milton B. Millon, director of the Municipal Technical Advisory Service of the University of Maryland.

The plan is to revise the model charter proposed by the Maryland Municipal League to suit local needs.

Mr. Millon has promised Mayor Harold W. Moyer that he will have a rough draft of the new charter ready for review by the end of this month.

After needed changes, the charter will be presented at a public hearing.

It was found, during a study, that the town's charter includes many obsolete items and that the best solution was to adopt a new and revised charter.

The Mayor and Council accepted the resignation of Raymond Ralston as chairman of the Civil Service Board. Mr. Ralston has accepted a position with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and is located in Indianapolis.

Irvin Neat was appointed to the vacancy and will serve as chairman of the board until June 1963.

J. Merrill Raynor was issued a permit to build a home on Island Street and Jack Johnson for a new dwelling on Furnace Street.

Lawrence Rooney was granted a permit to build a carport and James Berry, a two-car garage.

Town officials voted a $25 donation toward the community's Christmas tree fund.

Street Commissioner James Berry announced that about 600 feet of guard rail has been installed on Scotch Hill. A letter of thanks from Mrs. Gertrude Marsh for the work was read.

He also announced that the rear of Railroad Street, which has been open to two-way traffic during a trial period, will revert to one-way traffic.

Announcement was the recent purchase of a front-end loader from the D & L Coal Company. It will be operated by Street Supervisor William Devlin.

The Police Department reported one arrest during November and the issuance of 76 parking tickets.

The Mayor and Council has notified the Allegany County Commissioners of its approval of the county-wide sewage plan proposed by the City-County Water-Sewage Commission.

'Blue Law' Look-See Planned

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The 56th Legislature convening here Jan. 9 will be asked to take a new look at West Virginia's old "Blue law," the basis of much controversy and numerous police raids this month in Wood, Hancock and Cabell Counties.

Gov. W. W. Barron said Tuesday he will ask the Legislature to determine whether the Sunday closing law meets modern-day requirements. If the lawmakers find that the law is adequate, Barron said, they should clarify it so its provisions can be interpreted easily by law enforcement officials.

Barron said he decided to take that action "in view of tightened enforcement of the State's Sunday closing regulations in some areas of West Virginia with resultant confusion on the part of the public as well as our law enforcement agencies."

"This seems to me to be a matter of great importance which should be handled with urgency," the governor said. "With innumerable thousands of visitors expected during our Centennial year of 1963, there will be confusion that could do the state irreparable harm unless the closing regulations are clear to everyone."

Three cities have taken steps recently to enforce the antiquated "blue law."

Top Ten Stories Of 1962 In West Virginia Recalled

Editor's note: This is the first of five dispatches reviewing the year in West Virginia. The stories will summarize the Top Ten stories of 1962, the year in government and politics, business and industry, the lighter side of the news, and sports.

By J. RICHARD TOREN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The news out of Parkersburg hit West Virginia like a bombshell last Feb. 19. A judge had ruled that the new state income tax law was unconstitutional, invalid. If the decision were upheld, at one stroke the state government had lost about $17 million a year in taxes—and the coming year's budget would be woefully out of balance.

The court decision—and the followup ruling of the State Supreme Court holding the law constitutional—was West Virginia's top news story of 1962 in the judgment of United Press International.

Keeping in mind the problem of balancing news impact with long-range importance or effect, these were judged the year's top ten stories:

1. Income tax ruled invalid in judgment later reversed.
2. Liquor - by - drink battle ends in defeat for "wets."
3. Coal pipeline bill enacted and 3 cent sales tax extended by Legislature.
4. Blatnik highway subcommittee hearings.
5. Death claims Hatfield, Kump, Swint, Given.
6. Supreme Court hold Crime Commission unconstitutional.
7. Kennedy visit highlights Moore-Bailey campaign.
8. Pentagon cancels multi-million dollar Navy communications project at Sugar Grove.
9. Plans completed for state's Centennial celebration.
10. Seven Bluefield policemen accused of burglary.

Other contenders included the near-fatal knockout of boxer Tunney Hunsaker, the southern West Virginia mine strike, the record cold wave of December, and two bank robberies in a 10-day period last spring.

Wood County Circuit Judge Donald F. Black was the key figure in the state income tax story. He entered the picture because it was in his county that a photo company employe, Ned Tanner, filed suit challenging the tax law on constitutional grounds.

Black agreed that by basing the tax on a percentage of the federal income tax, the 1961 Legislature had permitted exemptions that were barred by the Constitution. He also ruled there were technical errors in the way the bill was passed by the House of Delegates.

An appeal was inevitable and it was speeded to the Supreme Court with the deadline for filing first returns only six weeks away. On April 3 the high court overruled Black and held the law valid on all disputed points.

The question of whether West Virginia should permit over-the-bar sale of whisky—proposed by the 1961 Legislature — dominated an otherwise tame statewide election campaign this year.

"Pros" and "antis" each set up statewide organizations to carry the battle down to the precinct level, there were a number of debates by "dry" leader L.E. Crowson and "wet" spokesman Chester R. Hubbard, and the wets dried up most clubs and other liquor outlets for six weeks before election day in a strategy move.

But when returns were in election night, the Liquor Control Amendment had lost by a 3-to-2 margin, and the issue was buried for probably another decade.

The Legislature made big news from January through mid-March, with a battle royal over proposed coal pipelines the biggest single issue. It pitted big coal firms against railroad interests, and the coal companies won with backing from the state administration. Lawmakers also voted to continue the sales tax at the "temporary" 3 per cent rate to provide funds for welfare and public works programs.

West Virginia's performance—or lack of adequate performance—in highway building was spread on the Congressional record during two weeks of hearings in Washington during July. Land purchases in the Beckley and Parkersburg areas were the main items before the Blatnik subcommittee, which decided that poor administration—but little or no law violation—was involved.

Two former governors, a Supreme Court judge and the veteran leader of the Catholic church in West Virginia died during the year. They were Henry D. Hatfield, elected governor in 1912 and to the U. S. Senate in 1928; depression - years Gov. H. Guy Kump; Supreme Court Judge Leslie Given, and Archbishop John J. Swint, bishop since 1922 of the Diocese of Wheeling.

In March, the State Supreme Court held that the West Virginia Crime Commission, created by the 1960 Legislature and defunct for the past 12 months, had never been legally established. The main effect of its ruling was to invalidate the conviction of a witness convicted of fals swearing before the Commission.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara canceled one of West Virginia's largest government projects on July 18—a huge radio-telescope project at Sugar Grove. Soaring costs, from $80 to $200-million-plus, were the main reason.

President Kennedy visited West Virginia for the first time since the 1960 election campaign, coming to Wheeling Sept. 27 to speak in behalf of Congressman Cleveland Bailey. But the visit — and those of many other national Democratic leaders — was apparently of little avail as Bailey lost overwhelmingly to Republican Arch Moore in the Nov. 6 election.

Plans for the 1963 observance of the 100th anniversary of West Virginia's statehood were put in final shape despite a series of financial problems. Scores of projects were planned at both the state and local levels. The fund drive was marred by the death in a highway accident of youthful Morgantown businessman Ward Christopher, chairman of the campaign.

Bluefield residents, and the rest of the state as well, were shocked by the arrest in June of seven members of the Bluefield police force on charge of burglary dating back to 1948. Two confessed, but no convictions had been obtained in four trials against three of the others as the year neared its end.

W. Va. Roads Death Toll Reaches 406

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's highway death toll rose to 406 Tuesday with the report of the death of Mrs. Maudie Coleman, about 70, Phelps, Pike County, Ky.

Mrs. Coleman was fatally injured Monday when she was struck by a car driven by Benny Hatfield, Beech Creek, Mingo County at No. 6 Red Jackson, near Matewan in Mingo County.

Authorities said she was in the area visiting a son.

At this time a year ago, 356 persons had lost their lives in West Virginia traffic accidents.

Students To Compete On Video Program

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Fifteen of West Virginia University's brightest undergraduates are in the running to represent WVU in its Jan. 27 appearance on television's G. E. College Bowl.

Professor John R. Williams said the students are meeting daily for tests under simulated College Bowl conditions to determine the makeup of the four-student team for the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) program.

Each Sunday, College Bowl matches teams from two of the nation's institutions of higher learning in a battle to decide which has the better command of a wide range of subjects. Possible WVU opponents include Ohio University, Drake University and Washington State University.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 17-year-old girl who is baffled by a problem. All the fellows in our crowd have cars. Some of the guys are careful drivers, but most of them like to show off when they get behind the wheel.

I've been in cars with guys who have deliberately run red lights and gone through stop signs just to prove they aren't chicken. One fellow likes to see how close he can come to another car when passing.

A boy I used to go steady with was a speed maniac and drove one of those revved up jobs 100 miles an hour. He finally had a terrible accident. It was his girl friend, not him, who was scarred for life. When they pulled him out of the wreck the beer cans were still in the front seat.

What can a girl do when her date is a reckless driver? I hate to make a scene, but I don't want to be a statistic either.

—NEED AN ANSWER

Dear Need: Any girl who rides in a car with a show-off driver or with a fellow who is drinking is asking for serious trouble.

My advice is this: Get out of the car at the very first opportunity. Go to the nearest telephone and call your parents or the police and ask them to come and get you.

When the fellows learn you will not risk your neck with a smart alecky driver, they'll behave. Or —let them pile up with some other girl who had less sense than you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an idiot and I know it, but if you will help me square things with my doll I'll behave from now on. I raise my right hand.

The other night I was driving home from a meeting and I spotted this cute chick waiting for a bus. I asked her if she wanted a lift and she said yes. To make a long story short she told me she was pretty good at the twist, so we ended up at a little out of the way place for a few drinks and some dancing. That's all there was to it.

I was sure nobody saw us so I said nothing to my doll. But I was wrong. Somebody DID see us and she got the feedback the next day. That pick-up was a spook and I'll never see her again. I know I did a dumb thing and I'm sorry. Please help me patch it up.—MAC THE KNIFE

Dear Mac: (Pretty dull knife.) Too bad your mother never taught you not to ride with strangers.

Lift is a series of decisions, Bub. Sometimes the wrong one can fix your clock permanently. I'll ask the doll to forgive you this time, but if you steal any more customers from the bus company I hope she gives you the axe.

Dear Ann Landers: My dad who is now 57 years of age came to live with us two years ago when mother passed away. Our youngsters were very found of him and he adored them.

Six months ago dad married a widow who has three young children. He is so wrapped up in his new family that he doesn't pay any attention to his own grandchildren any more. Of course we all feel hurt.

Why do people get nutty in their old age? Dad had everything a man could want when he lived with us, and now he has tangled himself up with this widow and these kids of hers. According to law who is entitled to a man's estate — blood relatives, (such as grandchildren), or step-children? Please answer in the paper so other old fools can see it.—TEAR-FILLED EYES

Dear Girl: The dollar signs are glowing like neon lights in those tear-filled eyes of yours.

If there is no will the laws of the state prevail. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the step-children came in ahead of the grandchildren. (And incidentally, your sad story gets me right here, Toots.)

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

County Names 5 Constables

Five constables were appointed yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Earl Heavner and Glenn Isner, both of Cumberland, were named as constables in Trial Magistrates Court here. Commissioner Robert Little Ebert placed both men in nomination and they were seconded and passed unanimously.

Commissioner Louis V. Shinnamon nominated Chester A. Stewart, Frostburg, for a post as constable in the local court but there was no second to his motion.

Commissioner Russell Carder nominated William Wilkinson for constable at Westernport, John Lochner at Lonaconing and Alfred Drew at Frostburg. All three men were unanimously approved by the board.

The men will assume their posts on January 2. Heavner is currently a constable in the local court. The commissioners said no decision has been made on constables at Mt. Savage, Cresaptown and other localities.

State Teachers Colleges Enrollment Up 143%

BALTIMORE (AP) — Enrollment of students in teacher education programs at Maryland's five state teacher colleges has increased 143 per cent the past four years, the State Department of Education reported yesterday.

The present enrollment is 4,042, compared with 2,816 in 1958. In addition, 786 students are enrolled in non-teacher training programs at the five colleges.

The department said the college with the largest single increase was Frostburg State, whose enrollment doubled the past four years from 582 in 1958 to 1,164 this year.

Salisbury State's enrollment has risen 146 per cent during the four years and Towson State 138 per cent.

Despite the increases, the department said, "the demand for teachers within the state still far exceeds the supply available from the colleges."

The department said Maryland needs 4,500 new teachers for its school system each year, but that the teachers colleges can supply one one-fourth of these, even with increased enrollments.

Bowie and Coppin, the other two teachers colleges, showed only small increases over their 1958 enrollment figures.

A total of 343 students were enrolled at Bowie in 1958, only 23 fewer than this year. Coppin's 1962 enrollment is 317, compared with 342 four years ago. Both Bowie and Coppin are Negro colleges.

Tree Examination Set

A tree expert examination has been scheduled for today at 10 a. m. at the State Office Building in Annapolis.

There are an estimated 10 thousand uses for paper, ranging from kindling a fire to dressing wounds.

Bees hum by vibrating their wings rapidly. They do not produce any sound with their mouth parts.

Louis V. Shinnamon Named State Director

Louis V. Shinnamon, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, has been named a director of the State Association of County Commissioners.

Lem Kirk, Hancock, a member of the Washington County Board of Commissioners, has been named to the association's legislative committee.

County Awards Ellerslie Well Project

The Allegany County Sanitary Commission has awarded a contract to Leo Ford to drill a test well and make other tests in the Ellerslie section.

The well would be drilled on the Lybarger farm near Ellerslie and it is hoped would not be more than 200 feet deep. A representative of the State Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources located the best site for the well drilling. The well would be in the Oriskany sands.

Ford will be paid $1,648 for drilling the well, making a 36-hour pumping test, check the water for purity and other factors for providing a good supply of water for residents of Ellerslie.

The Allegany County Health Department some months ago checked the wells in use in the Ellerslie area and found that half of them were polluted to some degree. There is also a bad sewage condition in the Ellerslie section.

West Virginia's cage team has four centers listed on the squad and the smallest is 6-feet-8.

Entrance Exams Not Best Gauge

A report from Columbia University offers evidence in support of what many educators have suspected—that college entrance examinations are not necessarily the best gauge of a student's ability to do college-level work.

Subjects of the Columbia study were 72 students admitted to last year's freshman class despite what the university considered below-average scores in the verbal section of the Scholastic Aptitude Test. All but three of the group passed the two freshman courses with the most demanding verbal requirements, 22 per cent finished in the top half of the class in all subjects and 6 per cent were rated in the top quarter.

"We may infer from these early statistics," says Henry S. Coleman, director of college admissions at Columbia, "that although low verbal scores are fairly reliable predictor of academic success in the freshman year, they do not accurately measure the well-motivated student's ability to survive, and in some cases to prosper, in a rigorous academic program."

The results of the Columbia study, limited as it was, are far from conclusive and their significance is, of course, open to question. But they should give heart to those admissions officers whose policy is to look beyond college board scores for other indications of individual potential—indications which point to the "late bloomer," the student with an undistinguished high school academic record who may find himself belatedly and go on to success.

As Mr. Coleman puts it, "a college that pretends to be among leaders in its field must be prepared to experiment."

In Washington

By Ralph de Toledano

The secret conversion of the Soviet army into a nuclear striking force has revolutionized traditional Russian strategy and tactics. Stalin's concept of massed forces and heavy artillery has been scrapped, along with his ideas of linear tactics. The long lines of rocket-firing cannon, planted wheel to wheel, are now considered as obsolete as the horse-drawn caisson. To cope with enemy nuclear weapons and the solid pockets of acute radioactive contamination, the Soviets have adopted Marshal Rommel's desert tactics—stressing extreme mobility.

Combat units are being given as much self-sufficiency as possible so that they can advance or retreat independently without intercommunication or strong logistical support. Dispersal is the key to the new tactics, so as to rob the enemy of the full impact of strategic nuclear weapons.

Defensive tactics have also been revolutionized. Instead of a continuous line, the Soviets now rely on a broken line made up of "centers of fire" which can catch an advancing enemy obliquely or flank him. Mobile reinforced concrete and steel domes have been designed—and are already in use. These will furnish cover for tactical nuclear weapons.

Since speed is essential in atomic war, troops are being trained to attack tanks from helicopters and moving trucks. For the first time, the Soviet armies are being heavily mechanized so that large numbers of men can be pushed through to any break in the enemy lines. The old idea of deployment in battle order before attacking is considered by Soviet tacticians as something to be reserved for optimum conditions. Infantry units, trained to cope with radiation, will be thrown into an engagement in pre-battle order or even in columns.

Closeness of pursuit, an ancient military doctrine, is of paramount importance in Soviet nuclear warfare. A military manual makes it clear that advancing units must attack right after the first shock wave of a nuclear blast has passed. If any decontamination is to be attempted, it must be done while the troops are advancing. Under most circumstances, protective measures must be ignored—even if it means heavy loss of life in the forward echelons. If the roentgen count is too high and it is impossible to by-pass the contaminated areas, suicide troops must nevertheless move through while supporting forces wait for the radiation level to drop.

"A nuclear attack," says one Soviet tactician, "is no cause for stopping the battle." And Colonel V. Mikhailov, in outlining battle procedures, declares that "greater attention should be paid to carrying out effective and decisive operations than to protective measures against the effects of atomic weapons and to care for the safety of personnel." If necessary, infantry is to use gauze bandages over the mouth (or the flap of an overcoat) to filter contaminated air.

Soviet commanders are aware that this use of troops as nuclear fodder can have dangerous morale effects. Careful and sustained indoctrination of combat units is their answer. But one general has warned of "open resistance and disobedience" in the face of thermonuclear hazards. This may be the Achilles heel of the new Soviet strategy and tactics. Psychological conditioning in peacetime may not be enough. The Soviets hope to instill in their troops a "conscious" self-discipline. They continually minimize the effects of radiation poisoning. And they try to instill dedication in their nuclear tactical units.

At the same time, they are stressing the negative side: A brutal disciplinary code listing some sixteen crimes which can be punished by summary execution in the field. All armies take a dim view of a soldier who fails to obey under fire. The Soviet code, like the World War II Japanese practice, includes among its capital crimes surrender or retreat. Obviously, the Red Army is aware that, however perfect its tactics may be on paper, the human equation still prevails.

But the Soviets also realize that they have a decade in which to brainwash their troops. Nazi units, fighting in Spain, were ordered to lock arms and advance on machine-gun nests—and obeyed. There is no reason why Communism cannot exact the same kind of iron compliance.

So far, then, the only deterrent to nuclear holocaust and Soviet military conquest is America's massive retaliatory power. As long as the United States outmatches the U.S.S.R. six-to-one in missiles and nuclear weapons, there will be no war. Which is why Comrade Khrushchev wants "disarmament."

No Peace In Holy Land As Syrians Fire On Israeli Along Sea Of Galilee

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The camels still pad along the deserts of Jordan as they did 2,000 years ago and crowd up the narrow paved passageway to the Damascus gate. The people of the Holy Land, in flowing robes and wearing sandals, still drive their asses and hawk their wares through the alleyways of Jerusalem. And the cypress trees stand out silhouetted against the hills of Jerusalem in the shadowy moonlight, just as they did when the angels proclaimed the birth of Him who wanted peace on earth, good will toward men.

But today in the Holy Land there is no peace on earth, good will toward men. Step by step, incident by incident, the Syrians along the Sea of Galilee where Christ walked have made it clear they want no peace.

The fishing season in the area, where Christ performed the miracle of the loaves and the fishes, has now started. And almost every week the Syrians open fire on Israeli fishermen or Israeli tractor drivers along the shore.

The Sea of Galilee is entirely Israeli. On the north shore, a 10-yard strip surrounds the sea, supposedly to keep Syrians away. But that makes no difference. Syrian snipers have squatted there, intermittently, for 10 years. In the south where Israeli territory broadens out and is wide enough for farming, there is also intermittent sniping.

The Record Of "Peace"

Here is part of the record:

Oct. 14 Syrian troops opened automatic fire on a tractor driver working in the fields of Tel Katzir. Firing lasted about 10 minutes and was not returned. Farther to the north a Syrian mine was discovered in the path of an Israeli border patrol . . . Next day, and for the second time in 24 hours, the Syrians opened heavy automatic fire not only on a tractor in Tel Katzir but on the buildings of the settlement, killing livestock and wounding one man. United Nations observers reported this was clearly Syrian provocation.

On Oct. 17, the Israeli foreign ministry lodged a vigorous protest and the firing ceased—until Nov. 6-7, when Syrian troops opened fire on a tractor working on the Huleh land-reclamation project in Upper Galilee . . . Dec. 4, firing started again on tractor drivers in Tel Katzir and on settlements at Ha'on and Ma'agan. The firing continued for several hours, despite cease-fire calls by UN observers . . . More firing on Israeli fishermen on Dec. 7—witnessed by UN observers in Tiberias.

Yet on Dec. 10 Syria announced it was calling the attention of the U. S., British, French and Russian ambassadors to "repeated Israeli aggression."

What is really happening is that Syria, since splitting off from Egypt, wants to show that it is more anti-Israel than Nasser.

That is the record of peace in the land where 1,962 years ago this Christmas the angels proclaimed peace on earth, good will toward men.

Merry-Go-Round

President John F. Kennedy has taken Sen. Ted Kennedy aside and given him some brotherly advice—namely, to be seen and not heard in the new Senate. As a result Teddy will ask for a place on the labor committee, not the foreign relations committee. This will put him squarely in the middle of the battle between his own church and the public schools over aid-to-education. Teddy will probably vote against his church . . . Some Senators are a bit skeptical about having Senator Teddy Kennedy in the cloakrooms while they discuss strategy to block his big brother's program on the Senate floor. They figure there will be more leaks—to the White House, not the Saturday Evening Post . . . Pierre Salinger may not have been able to prevent news leaks from the National Security Council, but he's doing his best to prevent any leak regarding that transcribed squawking of a starling in distress, used to scare other starlings away from White House trees. However, I can reveal that it was obtained by catching a starling, holding it upside down and transcribing its cry of distress . . . The starling's squawk was not half as loud as that of irate businessmen when they learned they would have to get receipts for any entertainment expenses over $10—if they want income-tax deductions. Their squawking, heard all the way down Pennsylvania Avenue, has led to a revision.

Speaking of press censorship, the British Foreign Office has privately warned leading London newspapers to be less anti-American. During the Cuban crisis the London press sounded more critical than Pravda . . . Prime Minister Macmillan telephone direct to President Kennedy to complain about criticism on the other side of the Atlantic—namely, that of Dean Acheson. The Prime Minister felt Dean's speech was a bit below the belt—especially considering the fact that Dean's mother, a Gooderham, was the daughter of a big Canadian whisky distiller . . . General Eisenhower has told friends he favors Gov. Bill Scranton of Pennsylvania as the next GOP nominee for President. He was not enthusiastic about Governor Rockefeller . . . Maybe he remembers that in the 1958 election, when Ike went up to New York to help Nelson, Nelson ran away so fast that the ace was dubbed "the longest run on Broadway."

Consequences Of Final Sino-Soviet Rupture

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS

The Soviet Union and the Chinese Communists are now quite clearly on the very brink of a final, open rupture which will split the world Communist movement into two warring camps.

The Western experts on Communist affairs, once so unanimous that nothing of the sort would ever happen, are now nearly as unanimous that the final rupture can hardly be avoided. The stages in the macabre, wordy by crucially significant journey towards the brink of rupture are well worth summarizing.

First, the Chinese were viciously denounced — but not by name — at the Bulgarian and Hungarian party congresses. They responded with equally vicious denunciations of the Soviets — not by name — to which they added that Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, then about to be received in Moscow with open arms, was a "traitor."

Second, the denunciations of the Chinese continued at the Italian and Czechoslovakian party congresses; but now they were openly named, both by the Czech party boss Antonin Novotny and some of the Italians. These speeches naming the Chinese were then printed in Moscow, thus putting the Soviet man in the street on notice of the depth of the trouble.

Third, the attack on the Chinese was continued with mounting vigor by Khrushchev himself, in the presence of the "traitor" Tito, at the recent session of the Supreme Soviet. In part, Khrushchev said his say about the Chinese by talking about the Albanians.

Khrushchev added to this passage of his speech, however, that the Albanians were like nasty little boys who took money from even nastier grown men who thought it a good joke for the boys to shout dirty words at respectable people. He also twitted the Chinese by name for permitting "fragments of imperialism" to "remain intact" at Hong Kong and Macao.

The Supreme Soviet heard shots directed at the Chinese from subsequent speakers, and it was further edified by an address from the "traitor" Tito. The Chinese thereupon replied by openly publishing a secret inter-party letter to the Czech party congress, bitterly complaining about the attacks on them and on the Albanians, and angrily demanding a world meeting of Communist leaders from all countries.

There is no likelihood that the Soviets will agree to such a meeting. The Chinese want it, solely because it would serve to show they have some support, from the North Koreans, perhaps from the North Vietnamese, and from certain Communist parties in the free half of the world, in Latin America and elsewhere.

The precise pattern of the next stage of this ferocious slanging match is in fact far from clear. It is abundantly clear, however, that plastering over the cracks once again has become all but impossible. The relationship cannot be improved except by the surrender of one of the two disputants. And since such a surrender is highly unlikely, the relationship is almost bound to deteriorate still further. Hence the predictions of final rupture.

In these circumstances, it begins to be needful to ask what the consequences of a final rupture may be. For the Chinese, one consequence will be increased economic difficulties; for the Soviets will almost certainly cut off their crucial oil shipments to China.

Another consequence for the Chinese will be their total liberation from any slight restraining influence from Moscow. Depending on the degree of megalomania in Peking, this can have pretty dramatic results in Korea, and Viet Nam, and elsewhere along China's borders.

In Moscow, meanwhile, severance of the last link with Peking will almost surely mean a much stronger drift towards "revisionism" — the more pragmatic, less repressive Communism the Chinese hate so much.

Overall, this vast development will also mean great opportunities and perhaps serious challenges for the West. That fact, in turn, makes it all the more regrettable that the West's annual NATO rally here was not more fruitful and constructive — and therefore more worth writing about. A meeting that is merely more cordial than its predecessor is hardly good enough.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

STARLINGS vs. WHITE HOUSE — Washington's hundreds of thousands of starlings have long posed a problem to the capital. They have been no respecters of the White House in selecting their roosting places.

A few weeks ago, in an effort to discourage the birds from spending noisy and annoying nights at the Executive Mansion, some smart engineers figured out a way to make them fly somewhere else. The idea was to broadcast cries of a starling in distress, spreading distress among the real starlings and causing them to fly away in fright.

But the bubble has burst. Each evening thousands of starlings fly to the White House and flock around the device broadcasting the distress cry. It's hard to tell whether they're there to help, or are just curious.

But it's certain they're not frightened. In fact, the discouraged engineers have a sneaking feeling that the distress squawks have attracted more starlings to the White House than have ever been there before.

CLEAN HABIT—A dry cleaning store some distance from the White House had a blue pinstriped suit on its rack marked "Pres. Kennedy." Inquiries developed that it did indeed belong to the President, and that Mr. Kennedy normally sent his suits there to be dry cleaned.

The situation conjured up pictures of a White House limousine drawing up to the curb, and Mr. Kennedy, suits over arm, leaping briskly out to drop them off for cleaning. And the corollary, of Mr. Kennedy driving up to pick up the garments after they had been cleaned.

But such is not the case. The deliveries and pick-ups are handled by a White House butler. It seems that Mr. Kennedy began to patronize the establishment while he was a senator, and has continued his patronage since entering the White House.

Mother Made Me

By John Crosby

LONDON.

About a month ago I wrote about the cult of the unread novel. At the Frankfurt Book Fair publishers of all nationalities rubbed their brains together and infected one another with excitement about novels no one had read. For instance, a Japanese publisher would rush to buy the rights to a Hungarian novel before some other Japanese publisher got ahead of him.

The person who profited most from all this synthetic excitement was a 20-year-old English girl named Charlotte Bingham, who has written a book called "Coronet Among the Weeds." So brilliantly was the excitement pumped up about this book that it was sold to publishers in nine other countries, none of whom had read it.

"It's not come out yet," said the young author over lunch at the Ritz the other day. "Everybody is going on about my book and nobody's read it. It's mad."

"Coronet Among the Weeds," I ought to explain, is an autobiographical novel, about her own search for a suitable young man. Her father is Lord Clanmorris, which means he is entitled to a coronet on the stationery and the word "weed" is English for drip, goon, square. Every time I come to England the authors get younger. Last time I was here there was a brouhaha over David Benedictus's "Fifth of June," a bitter, funny book about Eton. He's 26.

"He's very old," said Charlotte. "Twenty-four! Goodness!" She was picking at a broiled fish which was all her diet allows her because she's having a bout with her liver. Already her first novel and liver trouble. I don't know what she's got to look forward to.

"I'm very old, too," she added brightly. "A young boy of 14 and a girl of 16 have just written books here. By the time youre 21, you've had it."

"How come you wrote a book in the first place?" I asked her.

"Well, mother's been after me to write a book. My mother (Madelein Bingham) writes plays. My father (John Bingham) writes sort of crime novels. My aunt (Suzanne Ebel) writes romantic novels. I was brought up to the sound of clacking typewriters. Ugh! My mother kept saying: 'Why don't you write a novel?'"

Well, that's the way it is now with mothers. Now mothers start nagging: "Get out of that bed and get to your typewriter! Big lazy girl! Fourteen years old and what have you published? Suzan Craft is only 13 and already she's been published in five languages." That's really not far from the truth about little Miss Bingham.

Charlotte explained: "I kept saying to my mother: 'Are you mad? I can't write.' And mother would say: 'Well, you can talk. Write like you talk!' And I'd say, 'Are you mad? What would I write about?' And she said: 'Write about where you've been, what you've done.' So I wrote this novel."

The rest is history. "What kind of novel is it?" I asked. "Are you embittered, disillusioned, savagely attacking the hypocrisies of English life, that sort of thing?"

"Not bitter at all," said little Miss Charlotte, who is (I hate to blow the whistle on her like this) pretty much the girl next door. "They call it fresh."

"That's the way you strike me," I said.

"Well, don't talk yet," she said. "You haven't read it yet."

"Maybe you'll be the next Francoise Sagan," I said. "She's an old lady now. Twenty-seven, married. A mother."

"And her books are getting shorter and shorter," said Charlotte. "The kind of book you read on the subway—the first half going to work on the subway, and the second half coming home."

I got so excited over Charlotte's book, which, like everyone else, I haven't read, that that night at the opening of "Lawrence of Arabia," I buttonholed Irving Lazar, the demon agent, who is the world's greatest expert at selling books he hasn't read to the movies for astronomical prices. "Irving, you've got to latch onto this book. This is the hottest literary property in England."

You know what he said? "How do you know it's any good? You haven't read it!"

Viruses Attack But Do Not Kill Bacteria

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

We have all heard the saying that little fleas have smaller fleas. Are bacteria plagued by smaller bacteria? This is a moot question but there have been reports that viruses attack bacteria. Viruses are many, many times tinier than bacteria; consequently, it is logical to assume that this occurs.

But viruses do not kill bacteria. In 1951, Dr. Victor Freeman discovered that a nontoxin producing diptheria bacillus could be infected by a virus. When this took place, the bacillus still was capable of causing an infection in the throat and, at the same time, switched to a toxin-producer. Perhaps the virus remained in the bacillus and was the toxin-producer.

Unwed expectant mothers have less backache and easier confinements than married mothers, according to Dr. Albert W. Bauer, a Viennese obstetrician. He ascribes this situation to the posture of the pregnant women. Married mothers-to-be, unlike the nonmarrieds, flaunt their condition as a matter of pride.

The more the abdomen is protruded, the more the back sways. The ensuing strain is likely to lead to backache, which may become chronic. The unwed woman attempts to conceal her enlargement by pulling in her buttocks. This flattens the abdomen somewhat and keeps the vertebras in better alignment. In addition, the abdominal muscles are spared overstretching, and the baby lies more parallel to the spinal column.

Dr. Bauer suggests that all pregnant women assume the stance of the unwed expectant mother. He discourages the wearing of high heels because they tend to accentuate abdominal protrusion and lordosis of the spine.

PAIN NOT NORMAL

R. Y. writes: Is pain always an indication of something wrong?

REPLY

Yes, but the cause may not be serious. A temporary muscle spasm or an occasional headache is nothing to worry about.

NO FOOD LINERS

A. C. writes: Are there any foods that will put a new lining in the stomach?

REPLY

No, because the acid in the stomach would digest it. This happens regardless of the type of tissue consumed, including tripe.

EFFECT OF STROKE

R. S. writes: After a stroke, how long does it take to find out how much damage has been done?

REPLY

A day or two. The big questions are whether operation will help and whether function will return. There are tests that help along this line, but in many instances, the answer about improving muscle strength depends upon the willingness of the victim to help himself. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on stroke.

NOSEBLEED IN OLDSTER

J. D. writes. Would taking too much brandy cause nosebleed in an 88 year old woman? She has one about every 10 days.

REPLY

No. The commonest causes at this age are high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and ulceration of the nasal membranes. Brandy enters the picture only when it leads to nasal congestion of sufficient degree to cause a blowout of a blood vessel.

AFRAID OF CHOKING

L. C. writes: I'm 18 years old and have trouble eating. I practically live on cream cheese and tomato soup and have gone down from 107 to 84 pounds. I'm afraid to eat because I'm afraid I'll choke. Mother is sick over me. Maybe you can help.

REPLY

I hope your mother reads this answer, as she ought to know that a psychiatrist can help you rid yourself of the fear of choking.

EARLY TB

R. W. writes: How long does it take to cure tuberculosis in the early stages?

REPLY

From six weeks to six months, provided modern remedies are used. With tuberculosis, we prefer to use the term arrested rather than cured. The disease is notorious for returning if the individual neglects his health.

TOMORROW: Long-term gout therapy.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There is one tough buyer in a New York firm who makes it a rule never to allow an unknown salesman into his office. Old friends get all of his business.

One enterprising go-getter, however, finally wore the buyer down. He had a homing pigeon delivered to the buyer's office by a Western Union messenger. Tied to the pigeon's leg was a tag which read, "If you want to know more about our product, throw our representative out of the window."

The stunt not only won its originator an appointment, but an introductory order in the thousands.

Hugh Downs has revived the story of the leopard who visited his optometrist to complain, "Every time I look at my wife, I see spots before my eyes." "What do you expect?" scoffed the optometrist. "You're a leopard, aren't you?" "Of course I am," conceded the leopard, "but my wife is a zebra."

Late for school the third time in one week, ingenious little Malvinia came up with a brand-new alibi. "This time it really wasn't my fault," she told her teacher solemnly. "I was walking behind a slow dog."

You're Telling Me!

The government, we read, is debating feasibility of sending a man on a lunar space trip because of the immense expense involved. Gosh!—up to now we thought "Shootin' for the Moon" meant "hang the cost!"

A two-man lunar trip would cost at least $2 billion, say scientists. The Moon, we now know, is not made of green cheese—but greenbacks, billions of 'em!

Five thousand Parisian students stage a protest parade. In our day we called it just plain playing hookey!

Piedmont Tops Allegany, 50-49, Fort Hill And Keyser Triumph

Taylor Sparks Lions To Fifth Straight Win

Campers Almost Pull Game Out; Vandy Scores 23

By TED TROXELL

Piedmont's unbeaten Lions, after riding a pair of hot shooting hands to a come-from-behind eight-point lead early in the fourth quarter, found themselves unable to score in the last six minutes of play and had to hang on desperately to beat Allegany in a 50-49 thriller last night at Campobello.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the Lions, while the Campers suffered thir first loss after trouncing Martinsburg in their season opener last Friday.

Eugene Taylor and Keith Russell, both possessors of deadly jump shots, accounted for all but two of the Lions' 26 points in the second half.

One-Man Wrecker

Taylor pulled a one-man wrecking job on the Campers in the third period, when he hit for six field goals in nine attempts and led the Lions to a 44-42 lead after they had trailed by two at intermission, 26-24.

But after Jimmy Shaver canned a pair of foul throws to give the visitors a 50-42 edge at the 5:55 mark, Piedmont's offensive thrust fizzled out.

Nearly every shot tried by the Lions thereafter was wiped off the board by big Steve Vandenberg, the Campers' sophomore center, who wound up with 23 points and 21 rebounds.

Jimmy Bell's set shot, a pair of field goals by Vandenberg and Larry Snyder's free throw pulled the Campers to within a point with 14 seconds.

Vandenberg Rebounds

Shaver was fouled three seconds later and his missed try was retrieved by Vandenberg, the Campers then calling time out to set their strategy.

The objective of this last-second maneuvering was to get the ball into big Vandy. The latter got the ball off-balance and passed off to Bell, whose shot from about ten feet away bounced off and took what would have been a thrilling victory with it.

The Lions nearly beat themselves at the foul line, where they made ony six of 20 shots. Allegany hit on half of its attempts (7-14).

Clubs Closely Matched

From the field, the two clubs were closely matched. Piedmont hit on 22 of 54 shots for a .407 percentage, while Allegany connected on 21 of 54 for a .404 mark.

Taylor, who scored only six points in the first two periods, made seven of 12 from the floor in the second half and wound up with 20 points. Russell finished with 10, eight of them after intermission.

Vandedberg clicked on nine of 16 floor tries and had a 5-7 foul line performance to account for his game-high total. Bell, with 11 points, was the only other Camper cager to score in double figures.

SCORING MONTREALERS

MONTREAL (UPI)—A member of the Montreal Canadiens has won the National Hockey League scoring championship in five of the last eight years.

THIRD STRAIGHT

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Duke won the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship in 1962 for an unprecedented third straight year.

THIS DID IT, ANYHOW — A field goal (on its way here) by Roger Leclerc of the Chicago Bears was enough to drop the Detroit Lions, 3 to 0, in the season's finale in Chicago, a game the Lions hoped to win for a chance at possibly tieing the NFL division race. A win would not have helped, though, for the Green Bay Packers later in the day edged the Los Angeles Rams to cinch crown.

IN ALL-TEXAS FINALE—Winner of the Eastern division championship in the American Football League, the Houston Oilers (seen in New York, after clinching the crown) take on the Dallas Texans Sunday, December 23, at Houston. Coach Frank Ivy is in center and right is quarterback George Blanda. Both Houston and Dallas had 11-3 records.

Frostburg Tops Shenandoah For Fourth Victory

Bobcat Cagers Nip Virginians, 79-78

Frostburg State Teachers College scored its fourth win without a loss last night, turning back Shenandoah College, 79-78, on the Virginians' court.

The Bobcats pulled away to a 22-point 50-28 advantage in the first half, but had to hold off a second half surge by the determined Shenandoah cagers who nearly pulled the game out of the fire.

Although the Virginians never led in the second half, they managed to tie the score at 65-65 before Bill Wiltison's field goal snapped the deadlock and put the Bobcats ahead for good.

Wiltison fired in 10 field goals and converted eight of nine foul tries to wind up as high scorer for the evening with 28 points. George Lauder tallied 16 to put him over the 1,000 mark in his four-year career at the Frostburg institution. Temcio led Shenandoah with 26 points.

The losers outscored the Bobcats from the floor, 34-31, but made only 10 of 17 free throws to 17-25 for Frostburg.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Davidson, the smallest school in the Southern Conference, staved off a heart-pounding rally in the last minutes Tuesday night to stop second-ranked Duke 72-69 in one of the season's stunning basketball upsets.

Hetzel, the Wildcats sophomore sensation, controlled the boards throughout the evening while hitting for 27 points.

Bob Prince To Emcee Dapper Dan Dinner Here Second Straight Year

Plans Shaping For Fifteenth Affair Jan. 13

Garagiola Is Sought As Speaker; Tickets Are Now On Sale

Bob Prince, the "Voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates" on radio and television, will be the master of ceremonies for the second straight year when the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club holds its 15th annual dinner Sunday, January 13 at 6 p.m., in St. Mary's Church Hall, it was announced yesterday by William V. Keegan, chairman of the celebrities committee.

Prince first appeared here as emcee at the 1954 dinner.

Arrangements for Prince's appearance here were made by Al Abrams, of Pittsburgh, national president of the Dapper Dans, who has attended the 14 dinners held here since 1949.

Keegan stated that invitations have been forwarded to 40 sports celebrities and expected to receive replies this weekend.

Joe Garagiola Sought

One of the big names in sports being sought as one of the speakers at next month's affair is Joe Garagiola, former major league catcher whose voice is heard in broadcasts and telecasts of big league games. Garagiola, a native of St. Louis, played with the Cardinals, Pirates, Chicago Cubs and New York Giants and is one of the most popular speakers on the winter banquet circuit.

"We are not certain of landing Garagiola but Al Abrams is making a special effort to line him up for our dinner," Keegan declared. "We should know within the next several days whether Garagiola will be available."

Stan "The Man" Musial was the "big name" athlete at the last dinner held here.

Proceeds of the Dapper Dan dinners go toward the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Rowley To Get Plaque

The annual Dapper Dan award, a plaque, will go to Bob Rowley, University of Virginia guard, who is a product of Fort Hill High School.

Berlin (Timmy) Towler, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Towler, Sr., 405 Homer street, will represent the Allegany League for Crippled Children.

Tickets may be purchased at Wilson Hardware Company, Geatz's Cafe, Cas Taylor's Tavern, Goodfellowship Club, Spa Bar, Nu Way Hat Cleaners, Sports Shoppe, Toy Shop and Galen's Bar.

Dodgers' Duo Tops Hurlers

Koufax's ERA 2.54, Drysdale Wins 25

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers won the National League earned run championship last season, but teammate Don Drysdale took most of the pitching honors.

Koufax yielded 52 earned runs in 184 innings for a 2.54 ERA, the official averages released Tuesday disclosed. The southpaw won 14 games and lost 7 although he was sidelined for two months with a finger injury.

Drysdale, winner of the Cy Young award as the majors' outstanding pitcher, led in five categories: Games won — 25; strikeouts — 232; innings pitched — 314; games started — 41 and total batsmen faced — 1,289.

The hard-working right-hander finished fourth in earned run average with 2.84. Bob Shaw of Milwaukee was the runnerup with 2.80 while Cincinnati's Bob Purkey was third with 2.81.

Purkey and Joey Jay of Cincinnati and Jack Sanford of the San Francisco Giants were the only others to win at least 20 games. Sanford had 24 victories, Purkey 23 and Jay 21. Purkey, who lost only five games, had the highest winning percentage, .821.

Bob Friend of Pittsburgh and Bob Gibson of St. Louis shared the lead in shutouts. Each had five.

The Pirates took the team ERA title with 3.38. They were followed by St. Louis 3.55, Los Angeles 3.61, Milwaukee 3.68, Cincinnati 3.75 and pennant-winning San Francisco 3.79.

Pitt Will Retain John Michelosen

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Much-criticized John Michelosen will be retained as head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, athletic director Frank Carver indicated Tuesday.

"I'm not figuring on making any change," Carver said in a television interview. "There has been no contact with other coaches."

Michelosen has been the target of Pitt fans and numerous alumni for what they termed an "uninteresting football team."

Red Auerbach To Get Award In Washington

Touchdown Club To Honor Coach

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arnold (Red) Auerbach, coach of the champion Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, Tuesday was voted the Arch McDonald Achievement Award as the Washington area sports figure who contributed most to sports in 1962.

The trophy, a memorial to late sportscaster Arch McDonald, who was the "voice" of the Washington Senators for 25 years and who also broadcast the Maryland and Redskins football games, will be presented to Auerbach, a local resident, at the Touchdown Club's 28th annual awards dinner at the Sheraton Park Hotel Jan. 12.

Auerbach played with George Washington University here in the late 30's and captained the Colonials in his senior year.

He subsequently coached basketball at Roosevelt High School here and also was player-coach of the Norfolk naval training station team while serving as a naval lieutenant in World War II.

Red organized the original Washington Capitols under the sponsorship of the late M.J. Uline in 1946-47 when they entered the new Basketball Association of America (BAA) and swept to the Eastern Division title.

He came up with another Eastern Division champion with the Caps in 1948-49 when the BAA was reorganized as the National Basketball Association.

He has directed the Boston Celtics to an unprecedented six divisional titles and five world championships, the last four in a row.

Capon Quint Bows To Ft. Ashby, 43-30

Coach Quentin Sayers' Fort Ashby High School Eagles handed Capon Bridge its first loss of the season in the Potomac Valley Conference by downing the Hampshire countians last night at Fort Ashby by the score of 43-30.

The victory gave the Birds a 2-2 league record while Capon Bridge is now 2-1.

After taking a comfortable lead in the second period, Coach Sayers inserted his reserves and they played a greater part of the game.

Ricky Davy of Capon Bridge was the game's high scorer with 13 points. Nine Fort Ashby players figured in the scoring paced by Don Bosley and Joe Baldwin with nine and seven markers, respectively.

Capon Bridge was limited to six field goals but sank 18 of 29 shots at the 15-foot mark.

Dallas, Houston Dominate AFL All-Star Team

Texas Clubs Place Eleven On Squad

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dallas and Houston should be an even match in their Sunday game for the American Football League title according to the All-Star teams picked for The Associated Press by a committee of writers and broadcasters from the eight league cities.

Dallas placed six on the offensive and defensive units and Houston landed five for a total of 11 of the first 22 men. However, Chris Burford, fleet Dallas pass catcher, is injured. That leaves five All-Stars from each side for the big game in Houston.

The Texans took over half of the All-Star backfield with quarterback Len Dawson and halfback Abner Haynes. The Oilers placed flanker back Charley Hennigan. Cookie Gilchrist of Buffalo, the league-leading ground gainer, rounded out the backfield at fullback. Houston's second All-Star on offense was Al Jamison, 245-pound former Colgate tackle.

On defense, the Dallas club had linebackers Sherrill Headrick and E. J. Holub and safety Bob Hunt on the first team. Houston placed Don Floyd at end, Ed Husmann at tackle and Tony Banfield at corner back.

Houston also had quarterback George Blanda, center Bob Schmidt and fullback Charley Tolar on the offensive second team and linebacker Doug Cline and safety Jim Norton on defense. Dallas had rookie Fred Arbanas on the second team on offense and end Mel Branch and tackle Jerry Mays on the second defensive unit.

In addition to the Dallas-Houston contingent, the first team on offense included atckle Harold Olson, guard Billy Shaw and fullback Gilchrist of Buffalo, center Jim Otto of Oakland, end Lionel Taylor of Denver and guard Ron Mix of San Diego.

Denver put tackle Bud McFadin and safety Austin Gonsoulin on the first defensive team. Oakland placed corner back Fred Williamson, Boston had end Larry Eisenhauser and New York had linebacker Larry Grantham.

Machen Committed As Mental Patient

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Heavyweight fighter Eddie Machen was committed Tuesday to Napa State Hospital "as a mentally ill person" for treatment.

The decision by Superior Court Judge Philip Lynch came 20 minutes after he opened a hearing at Solano County Hospital. Machen was not present.

Dr. Theo Miller, superintendent of Napa State Hospital, had warned the judge that it might be "too dangerous for Machen" to bring him to the Fairfield hospital.

Monday the 198-pound fighter got out of hand and seven hospital attendants were needed to subdue him.

Two State Hospital doctors, psychiatrist Roy Wagner and Dr. Donald Hand, a medical man, testified they had observed the 30-year-old heavyweight closely since he was brought to Napa Hospital last Wednesday night.

Gilchrist Named Top AFL Player

Texans' Dawson Second In Voting

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Cookie Gilchrist, a 243-pound fullback who spent nine years in the Canadian League before he joined the Buffalo Bills, was named Player-of-the-Year in the American Football League Tuesday by an Associated Press committee of writers and broadcasters from the eight league cities.

Gilchrist made a shambles of the league, becoming the first man to gain over 1,000 yards as he ran over people and around them for a total of 1,096 yards on 214 carries. Gilchrist later was joined in the 1,000-plus club by Dallas' Abner Haynes and Houston's Charley Tolar but won with room to spare.

"I have no college education so it's been a question of money with me all along," said Gilchrist earlier in the season. "I had to battle all the time for the kind of pay I felt I rated."

When the Bills acquired Gilchrist from the Toronto Argonauts last summer he was "waived" out of the Canadian League. He had to overcome a reputation of being hard to handle.

The Bills, who reportedly paid him $20,000 salary, got their money's worth in a tremendous performance. He scored 13 touchdowns and averaged 5.1 yards per carry.

Gilchrist, now 27, said he went to Cleveland in 1954 when he was 19, fresh out of high school, and was sent to Canada for experience. He played with five teams in three leagues before he finally was waived out in August.

Gilchrist received 13 of the 24 votes cast by the committee. Len Dawson, 27-year-old former National Football League quarterback from Purdue, was second with eight votes for his fine year with the Dallas Texans. Charley Tolar, Houston fullback; Chris Burford, Dallas end, and Bud McFadin, Denver's 280-pound defensive tackle, each received one vote.

Sloan Pacing Sho'men With 12.5 Average

BALTIMORE — Coach Ed Athey doesn't deem Washington College's 0-6 basketball start a pleasant subject, but he is mighty eager to talk about one of his cagers — freshman John Sloan.

The wispy 6-footer from LaSalle High School, Cumberland — Athey's home area— quickly shook off an early case of jitters and now leads the Sho'men in scoring with a 12.5 average.

"Sloan's going to be a good one," says Athey. "He's getting his feet on the ground and I think he'll help us find ourselves.

"He seems to get better all the time. He's already outthinking the other members of the team. In fact, he anticipates plays that don't actually materialize because his teammates don't see them developing."

Washington College doesn't play again until January 5— at Loyola.

Buffalo Signs George Saimes

Ohio Back Starred At Michigan State

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—George Saimes, Michigan State's All-America fullback, signed Tuesday to play with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, it was announced here.

Saimes of Canton, Ohio, was a sixth-round draft choice of the Dallas Texans of the AFL and also the sixth-round choice of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Ralph B. Wilson Jr., owner of the Bills, said he had obtained the rights to Saimes from Dallas by agreeing to give the Texans a high-draft choice of Buffalo next season.

Saimes, a 21-year-old, 190-pounder, was named to The Associated Press first string All-America team this season.

At Michigan State, he played fullback on offense and alternated as a linebacker and safety man on defense.

Pirates Edge Romney, 61-59

Hamilton Gets 27, Wade Rings Up 23

Paw Paw High School's Pirates eked out a 61-59 decision over Romney High School's Pioneers last night at Paw Paw to extend its winning streak to four games.

It was Paw Paw's first start of the season in the Potomac Valley Conference while Romney went down to defeat for the third time in four outings.

Roland Hamilton's 27 points, including 11 field goals, was high for Paw Paw, while Don Wade slammed in ten fielders and 23 points to spark the Pioneers who lost out in the closing minutes of play after holding a 48-25 lead at the end of the third quarter.

In Memoriam

In memory of our loved one, Paul O. Carter, who passed away 1 year ago, Dec. 19th, 1961.
We think of him faring on,
As dear in the love of there
As the love of here;
We think of him still as the same,
And say he is not dead,
He is just away.
Sadly Missed by the Family

Seeking Stocks

American Hardware Corp. said in New York it has made a formal offer to acquire 60,000 more shares of Plymouth Cordage Co. common stock. The move, if successful, would further weaken the hand of B-S-F Co. in its planned proxy fight to win control of American Hardware. B-S-F Co. is fighting to block the deal with Plymouth Cordage in the courts.

Needed To Grow

ROME (AP) — The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said Sunday use of fertilizers has increased 14-fold in the world since the start of the century. An annual review said the amount has risen from an estimated two million tons around the turn of the century to 28.5 million tons for 1960-61.

New Nuclear Plant

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two utilities have started work on the foundation for West Germany's first nuclear power plant, an $87.5-million undertaking. The plant, to have a 250,000-kilowatt capacity, is slated to go into operation in 1966 at Grundremmingen, near Ulm, Bavaria.

Fallout is the radioactive product of a nuclear bomb mixed with dust sucked up by the bomb. One can't see, smell, taste, or feel it.

The Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, will meet in the City Hall Cumberland, Maryland, Thursday, December 20, 1962, at 8:00 P. M., to hear the following appeal:

CUF Workers Are Praised By Mathias

Over $395,000 Raised In Drive

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias last night heaped praise upon leaders, workers and individual givers in Allegany and Mineral Counties who swelled the sixth County United Fund to more than $395,000, the most money ever raised in such a drive.

Rep. Mathias, congressman of Maryland's Sixth Congressional district, was the keynote speaker during the annual CUF Awards Dinner held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club to honor campaign leaders, team captains and CUF representatives.

He said efforts made by workers during the campaign showed not only their interest in the humanitarian elements, but also their desire for a stronger community.

"Not Real Factor

"Money raised is not the real factor here," the congressman said, "it's the moral fibre in this community which stands out."

Rep. Mathias tied in his recent visit to Cuba, where he toured the "cactus curtain" around the Guantanamo Naval Base, and Puerto Rico, to the CUF effort in Allegany and Mineral counties.

He informed his audience of approximately 200 of the stark contrasts between the low living standards of Communist Cuba to those of Puerto Rico where "living standards are the highest in the Caribbean."

In Puerto Rico, he pointed out, concern in their communities is shown by private individuals, businessmen and professional men.

"In Cuba," he continued, "you see what happens when people lose the kind of spirit which has made this CUF drive so successful."

Praises Efforts

The congressman praised the efforts of the Big 7 Employes Division which contributed a total of $154,783.74 when its goal was $150,492. It joined the Cumberland Golden Gifts Division in surpassing its goal.

Rep. Mathias presented special plaque awards to Woodward D. Pealer, president of County United Fund; Alvin H. Wilson, who led the biggest campaign on record; Robert Hunter Jr., first-year co-chairman of Cumberland Golden Gifts Division; C. M. Sanner, first-year co-chairman of the Cumberland Classified Division.

In absentia awards went to Walter E. Dyck, co-chairman of the Cumberland Golden Gifts, who is in London, England, and John E. Geare, co-chairman of Cumberland Classified, who is in Philadelphia.

Receive Plaques

Master of Ceremonies was Mr. Wilson, who also received plaques from Mayor Earl D. Chaney, on behalf of city council, and Russell Carder, county commissioner. Both governing bodies gave the chairman proclamations denoting the success of the drive and each proclaiming "County United Fund Honor Award Day."

Wilson thanked all who contributed to the success of the campaign and predicted that within a week that the $406,067 goal — the highest in CUF's six-year history — would be met. "We need about $10,000, the chairman said, "and I have no doubts about reaching the goal."

The mayor and commissioner Carter were introduced by Mr. Pealer, who saluted Mr. Wilson on his efforts and who said the record fund drive would not have been possible without the CUF principle — the "one-drive idea which eliminates overlapping, expensive drives in providing more services for more people at less cost."

Many Get Awards

Winfield H. Adams, executive director of CUF, presented awards to members of the audit-

CUF Chairman Honored

Alvin H. Wilson, right, general chairman of County United Fund, receives a plaque and congratulations from Mayor Earl D. Chaney, on behalf of the Mayor and City Council, for his efforts and leadership in the 1962 CUF drive. Rep. Charles McC. Mathias (6th District) looks on. The plaque was presented at the annual CUF awards dinner last night at Shrine Country Club at which time Rep. Mathias was principal speaker. A similar award was presented to Wilson by Russell Carder from the Allegany County Commissioners.

Hospital Costs Cited In Bid For Rate Boost

Blue Cross Director Speaks At Hearing

By TOM STUCKEY

BALTIMORE (AP) — The executive director of the Maryland Blue Cross said Tuesday that rapidly increasing hospital costs have made necessary an increase in standard hospital insurance premiums.

Reginald H. Dabney, the official, said an average increase of 22.8 per cent is the minimum needed to maintain Blue Cross on a sound financial basis.

Dabney presented the Blue Cross case at a public hearing conducted by F. Douglass Sears, state insurance commissioner. The commissioner must approve any rate increase for Blue Cross.

Abuses Blamed

Francis G. Burch, Baltimore City solicitor, said abuses of hospitalization insurance and not rising costs were largely responsible for the $1.1 million operating deficit incurred by Blue Cross last year.

"I am not convinced that all the proper steps have been taken to check such abuses," Burch said. He said he represented the mayor and City Council and nearly 10,000 city employes covered by Blue Cross.

Burch also said he believed that granting the rate increase would only make worse the current problem because many healthy young persons would be encouraged to drop their insurance.

The subsequent loss of good risks, he added, could bring about still another round of rate increases.

Might Broaden Powers

Burch said the State Insurance Department might be given broader powers to investigate possible abuses of insurance as one step in reducing spiraling rates.

Blue Cross filed for the increase Nov. 29, saying it was essential to continuation of its coverage of 727,000 Maryland subscribers.

The proposed rate hike would take effect March 1, and would range from a minimum of 68 cents a month for an individual enrolled in a group plan to a maximum of $2.06 a month for a family enrolled on a non-group basis. The present rates went into effect Oct. 1, 1960.

Parent-Child Study Begins On January 7

The second semester of a Parent-Child Study in the physical area being sponsored by the Allegany County Board of Education will begin on January 7.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in county public schools, said the first semester in which 15 schools participated had "excellent attendance." It was completed earlier this month.

Leaders for the second segment will be Mrs. John Oglebay, Mrs. Joseph Steger and Mrs. Fern Wilson.

The principals of the remaining schools are being encouraged to thoroughly check communities and ask parents to participate in the second segment.

In addition to the remaining schools, a group of interested residents of Potomac Park plan to attend the second semester which will be organized in that section of the county by Robert Price, teacher at Fort Hill High School.

The parent-child study has been completed at Mt. Savage School, Columbia Street, Gephart, McCoole, Northeast, Barton, Central, Cresaptown.

East Side, Westernport Elementary, Centre Street, LaVale, West Side, Oldtown and Mt. Royal.

Mr. Higgins noted that the leaders have done a very competent job for the first semester. The leaders, he concluded, spent a great deal of time in organizing materials of instruction and planning the seven-session program.

Army Needs 2,000 Nurses

The Army Nurse Corps needs at least 2,000 nurses to maintain its minimum peacetime strength of 5,000, according to estimates received yesterday by Sgt. Jack Wheeler, local Army recruiter.

This critical shortage exists because the majority of nurses who entered the Army during World War II are reaching the mandatory retirement age of 55.

Local graduate nurses may contact Sgt. Wheeler at the recruiting station, Post Office Building, or by telephoning 722-6600, for information about career opportunities available to them as commissioned officers in the Army Nurse Corps.

Graduate nurses, of three or four year accredited schools of nursing, are eligible to be commissioned as second lieutenants; nurses with a bachelor's degree and at least five and one-half years experience can be commissioned as Captains in the Army.

In addition to excellent salaries, Army nurses enjoy the same privileges given to all Army officers — free medical and dental care; 30 days paid vacation per year; retirement after 20 years service, with an income of one-half the base pay in highest grade held while in service; and the unique opportunity to not only practice their chosen profession of nursing throughout the world, but also to select their clinical specialty in nursing.

Area Sewage Problems To Be Discussed

Dr. Prather To Attend Session

A solution to Allegany County's sewage needs and a timetable to meet them will be sought at a meeting of city, state and county officials and members of sewage commissions today at 1:30 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Perry F. Prather, director of the State Department of Health, and Robert M. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Environmental Hygiene for the department, requested today's meeting.

They will meet with State Senator-elect George R. Hughes Jr., Allegany County delegates to the General Assembly, county commissioners, Mayor and City Council and members of the Allegany County Sanitary Commission, LaVale Sanitary Commission and the County-City Water-Sewage Commission.

At a council meeting Monday, the Mayor and Council announced the City would be willing to sell a two-fifths interest in the city's sewage treatment plant on the basis of a proposal made by the City-County Water-Sewage Commission. Also endorsed was the commission's report which calls for the establishment of a new authority or commission to act on water and sewage problems on a county-wide basis. Yesterday, the County Commissioners received letters from mayors of three Georges Creek communities supporting the program being advocated by the City-County commission. The letters were from Mayor Arthur P. Hoffa of Barton, Mayor Lionel D. Baker of Midland and Mayor Harold W. Moyer of Lonaconing.

Transit 5A Is Launched Over Pacific

ABL Has Role In Blastoff

Allegany Ballistics Laboratory played a role in the launching yesterday of a satellite, designed to become a new guiding star for ships and submarines, which was shot aloft over the Pacific missile range at Point Arguello, Calif.

A 74-foot tall Air Force Blue Scout rocket booster, the third stage, X259, Antares II, which was designed and developed at ABL, took the satellite up.

Called Transit 5A, the 140-pound satellite was scheduled as the first of a network of four which by the end of 1963 should be able to give ocean vessels anywhere in the world a quick fix on their position in any kind of weather.

This is of vital importance to Polaris-type submarines which have to know their position precisely before missiles can be launched. Current methods of navigation by the stars require clear skies.

Transit 5A's four-stage, solid-fuel Scout booster roared into the sky at 5:26 p.m., PST, aimed south toward an orbit around the earth's poles.

In polar orbit, a network of four satellites would be able to beam position-fixing signals to any point on the revolving earth once every two hours.

Seven previous Transit satellites, two of which are still operating, were launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla. These were test vehicles and not designed to be operational aids to navigation.

Plans call for the solar-powered Transit 5A to broadcast its position every two minutes. A ship or submarine receiving the information would measure the distance to the satellite by radar and from this compute its own position at sea.

Peace Corps Volunteer To Spend Holidays Here

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's first volunteer for the Peace Corps will arrive here this weekend for a Christmas vacation prior to leaving late in January for an 18-month assignment in Morocco.

She is Miss Beverley C. Bowie, 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, 706 Washington Street. She will have an opportunity to instill some of her own intense enthusiasm for the Peace Corps when she speaks at the meeting of the Young People's Fellowship of First Presbyterian Church at 6:30 p. m. Sunday. The public is invited to hear her remarks.

Miss Bowie is one of 80 Peace Corps trainees who have been preparing for their Moroccan assignment since October 15 on the campus of California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo.

During her training period, which will conclude late in January, the young Cumberland woman has been preparing to serve as an instructor in English in Morocco. English is a foreign language in Morocco, where most of the city people in Rabat and Casablanca speak French and where those in the hinterlands generally speak Arabic.

Other Peace Corps trainees in her group are planning to serve in Morocco as irrigation engineers and as surveyors.

Miss Bowie was graduated from Wooster College in Ohio in June. She majored in psychology. Last summer she worked for a savings and loan association in San Francisco and was preparing to attend a secretarial school in Boston when she was notified that her Peace Corps application had been accepted.

A report on Miss Bowie's Peace Corps interest came Monday night in a phone call to this newspaper from Dan McCable, who is director of public relations at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

Mr. McCaleb said the Cumberlander and the rest of the 80 Peace Corps trainees on the California college campus have spent a busy two months in preparation for their overseas assignments. They have been lodged in a motel about a mile from the campus. They peddle bicycles the mile each morning to get to breakfast on the campus shortly after 6 a.m. From then until 8 or 9 p.m. five days a week they are on the go. Saturday's schedule provides some tapering off in the busy program.

The public relations man quoted Miss Bowie's opinions on the Peace Corps as follows:

"I want to put 22 years worth of tools to maximum use and the Peace Corps is the best route toward that end. Service and giving are the prime elements in all Peace Corps projects but the process is reciprocal. We also will be learning and growing a great deal through this experience."

Mis Bowie and the other Peace Corps volunteers will leave the campus Thursday. They will be transported by buses to Paso Robles and from there take planes to their homes all over the country. The local representative will fly to Pitsburgh, where her parents will meet her. She is to return to California January 2.

An effort to stimulate local interest in the Peace Corps took place in March when Jim Gibson chief of the Division of Agricultural Liaison of the Office of Public Affairs of the Peace Corps, addressed the Kiwanis Club. He has one link with Allegany County for he married Mis Kathryn Phillips of Eckhart in 1939.

At that time the Peace Corps had active programs in 12 foreign countries and plans were in the making for expansion into 32 other countries by the end of this year with some 4,800 volunteers.

Mr. Gibson characterized the Peace Corps program as an effort to fight poverty and disease by helping people in underdeveloped nations to help themselves.

Apportionment Study Group Asks Extension

Would Submit Report In 1964

BALTIMORE (AP)—A commission appointed to study reapportionment of the Maryland General Assembly voted Tuesday for a one-year extension before submitting its report.

The 16-member commission, appointed by the governor, had been asked to submit a report to the 1963 legislature.

However, a resolution introduced by Del. Ridgely P. Melvin Jr., a lame duck member of the House from Anne Arundel County, suggested that the time limit be extended to 1964.

Gov. Tawes will be asked to grant the extension. Meanwhile, the commission scheduled another meeting in Annapolis for Jan. 16—two weeks after the start of the 1963 legislative session.

Melvin, a Democrat, said decisions and pending litigation before the Supreme Court on reapportionment may lay down guide lines which could be followed in Maryland.

Report In 1964

The resolution also pointed out that action by the General Assembly proposing a constitutional amendment cannot be submitted to the voters anyway until the election of 1964.

The resolution passed by a voice vote without opposition.

Prior to that vote, committee members approved a motion to establish a minimum guarantee of two members in the House of Delegates from each county and each legislative district in Baltimore City. The motion was made by Del. Thomas Hunter Lowe, D-Talbot.

The motion was carried by voice vote, with only two apparent dissenters. They were Royce Hanson, who initiated the drive for reapportionment which resulted in 19 delegates being added to the House this year, and Samuel Hopkins, a Republican from Baltimore.

Previously, a motion by Hanson to establish a minimum guarantee of one under a House of 142 members, was defeated by a 10-3 show of hands. Voting with Hanson were Hopkins and Mrs. Helen L. Koss of Wheaton, second vice president of the Maryland League of Women Voters.

No Maximum

The motion by Lowe which was approved did not establish a maximum membership in the House. Another motion by Del. Charles H. Smelser, a lame duck representative from Frederick County, suggested a maximum membership of 123. But his motion was later withdrawn after commission members asked for more time to study various formulas.

Early in the meeting, the committee, by the same 10-3 vote, decided not to discuss reapportionment of the Senate. The majority interpreted Gov. Tawes' charge to the commission as applying only to the House of Delegates.

Fire Safety At Christmas Being Urged By Firemen

With the approach of the holiday season, the Cumberland Fire Department is joining volunteer companies of the area in urging fire safety at Christmas time.

Residents are reminded to stand the Yule tree in water until it is brought into the house, keep it in water until it leaves the house and make sure it is kept from sources of heat—radiators, stoves, and fireplaces.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker reminds residents not to rely on chemical coatings or solutions to "flameproof" a natural tree, since none is completely effective.

Referring to decorations and wrappings, Chief Parker urges the use of combustible decorating materials (metal, glass, asbestos, etc.) where possible. Untreated cotton batting, flock and paper ignite easily and may burn intensely, according to Chief Parker who said gift wrappings should be disposed of promptly and safely.

Avoid pyroxylin plastic toys and dolls, he said. Toys operated by alcohol, kerosene or gasoline are especially dangerous; they may upset and set fire to children's clothing, the tree or the house itself.

Check tree lighting sets, electric equipment, as well as extension cords, for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets.

And, finally, be sure to turn off all tree and other indoor holiday lighting before retiring or leaving the house.
